Mansfield Industry Faces Curtailment

LEWIS GETS SUMMONS

Wind to Drop Mercury to Season's Low

The season's most severe cold wave, whipped into the Mansfield area early today by high winds, will drop the mercury to 15 or 18 above zero by tomorrow morning, the weatherman predicted.

Mansfielders were warned to put anti-freeze in their car radiators or face damage to their autos.

Snow flurries and squalls may accompany the drop. Southwest storm warnings were up on all of the Great Lakes as the weather bureau forecast winds of between 30 and 35 miles an hour velocity throughout today.

Ohioans may expect the cold snap to stay at least until Sunday, the weatherman said.

At noon today temperatures had moderated to 33 from a low of 29 early this morning. Yesterday's high was 61.

17 Below In West.

Coldest spot in the nation today was Glasgow, Mont., where a frigid 17 below reading was reported. Chicago had its coldest autumn day at 20 above and the season's first snow.

High winds and rains, changing to snow flurries occurred in the upper lakes' region. Mansfield had a .08 precipitation reading.

The five-day extended forecast for Ohio gave little hope for moderate temperatures.

Light rain or snow is seen for Sunday or Monday and snow flurries are predicted for Wednesday with precipitation totalling less than a quarter inch.

Temperatures will be below normal Saturday and Sunday. Tuesday may bring warmer temperatures, but Wednesday will be colder with the mercury registering about five degrees below normal.

TAKE ESCAPERS TO LANCASTER

Officers Remove Fugitives and Girl to City Jail, Charges to Be Filed.

Four escaped Mansfield reformatory inmates and their 17-year-old girl companion, whose two-day crime wave ended at Millersburg early yesterday, were in the Lancaster city jail today awaiting filing of charges against them.

Police Chief Sam H. Hutsler said charges would be filed in Mayor Fred Von Stein's court in the hold-up and abduction of Joseph Stanko, 35, at his dry cleaning shop in Lancaster, the Associated Press reported.

Meanwhile, William J. Bell, 21, of 704 Park avenue east, said he and Merle Leedy, 22, of Bellville, who also were abducted and robbed by the quintet Wednesday, were going to Mt. Gilead tomorrow to file charges against the young fugitives.

In Lancaster, the four honor camp escapers and girl face charges of armed robbery, larceny, kidnaping, and auto theft.

The Richland county pair were forced to accompany the four men and the girl to Columbus early Wednesday where they were bound and left in a field. The quintet, who allegedly robbed the men and exchanged clothes with them, took Leedy's car.

The girl and four men were brought to Lancaster last night from Millersburg, where they were captured early Thursday. They were identified as James L. Vendor, 16, and Donald W. Burson, 22, both of Canton; Leland B. Earlen-

FLEEING GIRLS CAPTURED HERE

Two of four inmates of the Delaware Girls Industrial school who escaped at 1:30 a. m. today were in the Richland county jail a few hours later.

Highway patrolmen, sheriff's officers and city police continued their search for the other two girls reported to have been let out of a car in the edge of Mansfield.

Captured by State Highway Patrolmen H. R. Opp on U. S. Route 42 north at 8 a. m. were Stella Pride, 17, and Lulu Mae Gibson, 17.

Opp reported that the two girls still at large were wearing blue institution dresses and one had a checkered coat when a rider dropped them in the edge of the city.

Still at large were Betty Wilcox and Mary Severns. All four of the escapees had been hitchhiking north on U. S. Route 42, Opp said.

DAD FINDS 'DEAD' MARINE SON ALIVE

EAST LIVERPOOL — (INS) — A 23-year-old East Liverpool marine was back from the dead today.

Alfred Whisenand reported that he found his son, Owen David Whisenand, 23, in a Pittsburgh hospital.

The marine was reported "missing in action" on Guam, Aug. 4, 1944, and declared officially dead Jan. 31.

3 PERSONS HURT IN CITY TRAFFIC

Three persons were injured in traffic accidents in Mansfield last night and early today.

Injured were Mrs. Martin Vogel, 58, of 22 North Glenn avenue, who suffered a broken left leg; Chester H. Jaworske, 25, of Berea, face injuries and loss of two teeth and Mrs. Christine Hunter, 19, of Mansfield, R. D. 1, possible jaw and skull fracture.

Mrs. Vogel was injured when she was struck by a car at Third and Main streets at 7:30 p. m. yesterday.

Driver of the car, Lewis Elsworth Butts, 19, of 319 Herring street, told police that he was traveling south on Main street and had stopped for a red light when a car hit the rear of his car.

He said he pulled into the intersection and waited for two cars to pass before turning east on Third street.

Butts said he saw Mr. and Mrs Vogel standing on the curb and thought they meant to wait for him. He said he glanced back to see who had hit him and struck Mrs. Vogel. No charges had been filed today.

Jaworske was injured when he stepped from behind a parked car on South Main street shortly after midnight today into the path of a car driven by Earl J. Tyree, 63 East Raleigh avenue, police said. Jaworske told police the accident was his fault and no charges were filed.

Mrs Hunter, was injured when the car in which she was riding crashed into a parked car, pushed it against a third car on Springmill street at 12:20 a. m. today. She was reported in fair condition at General hospital.

Driver of the car, Charles Hunter, Mansfield, R. D. 1, was cited for operating under the influence of alcohol and pleaded guilty in municipal court today. His case was continued until Nov. 23 for disposition.

Officers said the Hunter car crashed into a car belonging to Fred L. Martin, 659 Springmill street. The Martin car was pushed against a car belonging to Frank Shaffer, 651 Springmill street.

Only Two Days Left to Pay Garbage Bill

With only two more days left before the Monday deadline for the payment of garbage collection fees for this period, less than one-third of the total bill has been collected, Fred Lingafelter, secretary of the water and garbage departments, reported today.

Residents are offered a bargain rate pending adoption of a new garbage and ash ordinance, Lingafelter said.

Refuse collections will cost just 60 cents a month until February when the new proposed rate of $1.10 a month, for both garbage and ash service, would go into effect if approved by council at its December meeting.

ALL 11 PLANE CRASH VICTIMS STILL LIVING

Aerial Searchers Find Wreck High in Alps, Drop Food, Medical Supplies.

BULLETIN

PARIS — (AP) — Orly airfield announced tonight that the wreckage of an American C-53 transport sought since Tuesday had been found in the Alps near Interlaken, Switzerland, and that all the 11 persons aboard were alive.

PARIS—(UP)—Aerial searchers today found in the towering Alps of south central Switzerland the wreckage of a transport plane missing three days with 11 Americans, at least four of whom were seen on the snow blanketed mountainside.

A U. S. army superfortress and a flying fortress were wheeling over the scene after dropping food, clothing and medicine to the survivors.

The first reports radioed from the scene 10 miles southeast of Interlaken, Switzerland, gave assurance that there were survivors of the harrowing experience. In addition to the four persons seen outside the wrecked transport, officials "presumed" that others were inside.

The fortress which discovered the missing transport was piloted by Brig. Gen. Ralph A. Snavely, husband of one of the three wives which went down in the Alps while flying from Munich to Italy.

Also aboard the crashed ship were Brig. Gen. Loyal M. Haynes, head of Gen. Mark W. Clark's advisory staff in Austria, Col. William C. McMahon, retiring chief of staff in Austria, and his 11-year-old daughter, Alice.

Austrian headquarters was informed at 3:30 p. m., (9:30 a. m., EST.) that the missing plane had been sighted by three search planes, a superfortress, a flying fortress and a Royal Air Force plane.

The spotters reported that the plane virtually was buried in a snow-covered mountainside in the loftiest reaches of the Alps.

One-Teacher Strike Ends; School Opens

SABBATUS, Me.—(INS)—School bells signaled today the end of a one-teacher strike for better working conditions by Mrs. Winnifred Sawyer, 69.

She objected to walking six miles a day to and from the 27-pupil Robinson Corner school; to sweeping the floor; supplying wood for the pot-bellied stove and other janitorial duties.

Mrs. Sawyer was driven to school today by Chairman Weston B. Jones of the school board. He guaranteed she would have janitor service "if I have to do it myself."

The school board hoped to talk the 13-year-old $1-a-week part-time janitor into resuming the job. The board discussed possibility of increasing the $2.50 a week paid to Mrs. Sawyer's driver.

Resignation of her driver was the last straw for Mrs. Sawyer and resulted in her strike.

AGREE TO LEAVE

LONDON—(INS)—The London Times reported today that Russian authorities have agreed to withdraw from several airfields and troop positions in western Poland. The dispatch said they would be replaced by Polish units.

Railroad To Cancel 2 Trains

One major Mansfield industry today warned of a possible production curtailment as a result of the coal strike, but other large plants here reported coal and steel supplies sufficient to permit unimpaired operations for a month or six weeks.

As the nation-wide strike entered its second day, plummeting temperatures served notice to Mansfield householders that their coal supplies must hold out until settlement of the dispute.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced that two passenger trains serving Mansfield would be discontinued Sunday midnight until further notice.

Two other railroads furnishing passenger service here reported, however, that no trains through Mansfield would be discontinued for the present.

* * *

Day-to-Day Basis.

A spokesman for the Tappan Stove company said the plant here was operating on "a day-to-day basis" as far as steel supplies were concerned. He said the plant, which employs more than 600 persons, would have to curtail production if they are unable to receive steel, which is a major raw material in the manufacture of stoves.

"When the steel mills shut down, it's just a matter of days until we'll have to taper off," the spokesman warned.

The Associated Press reported that Ohio steel mills planned extensive curtailment of operations by early next week. Youngstown Sheet and Tube company officials at Youngstown said possibly half of its 14,000 employes would be without work by the week's end.

* * *

To Cancel Detroit Trains.

The Pennsylvania railroad Sunday will cancel Train 126 from Detroit to Pittsburgh, which arrives here at 4:12 p. m., and Train

ATOMIC ARMS RACE FEARED

NEW YORK —(UP)— American atomic policy makers believe an atomic arms race is imminent and favor an early showdown with Russia on the vital question of international controls, it was learned today.

Frankly pessimistic at prospects for breaking the six-months deadlock with Russia on effective world safeguards for the cosmic force, these leaders believe that delays in forcing a showdown may eventually undermine national security.

The major stumbling block facing the United Nations atomic energy commission is adamant Soviet opposition to United States demands for an international inspection system, informed sources said.

These sources believed a showdown may come:

1. In drafting a commission progress report next month, or

2. In a move to report out the American control plan, notwithstanding the near certainty of a Russian veto when it is sent to the UN security council.

It was learned that U. S. policy makers believe this country already has stated its case fully for progressive international controls including an inspection system to guard against diversion of atomic energy for war purposes.

They are convinced that no compromise on these principles is possible, and that Russia must be asked to "take the plan or leave it."

"IF THEY PUT John L. Lewis in jail," says Claude Burford (rear), 38-year-old topflight miner at the Davidson coal mine at Gintown, Ala., "my mining days are over." That sums up the attitude of a group of idle miners here to the justice department's action against Lewis. Burford is shown with his daughter, Claudine, 3, and son, Ernest, 5, as they have a pod time with his miner's alarm.

Search Uncovers Jap Gems Worth Millions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of cut diamonds—probably the greatest assortment ever assembled in modern times—is in the hoard which American occupation forces uncovered in Japan.

Government officials said today the Japanese government collected the huge treasure from the Japanese people as a desperate war financing measure. Apparently the intention was to sell the gems for foreign exchange and purchase munitions and raw materials.

A war department announcement last night said the gems were valued at between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000. But gem experts with knowledge of the hoard said the army undoubtedly was speaking conservatively and of the New York wholesale price. In settings and in the possession of individuals, they said, the value would be far greater.

Situation Unique.

"They represent the entire diamond resources of the whole nation," Edward Henderson of the Smithsonian Institution told a reporter. "This undoubtedly is a situation unique in history. I know of no other time when virtually every diamond owned by every individual in a nation was assembled at one place."

The gems now are in vaults of the Bank of Japan in Tokyo. They were found buried and hidden in many places of the Japanese empire.

The gems came into possession of the Japanese army when the government appealed to the people to turn them in. When the Japanese surrendered, the hoard became widely distributed.

Telling how the diamonds were found, officials here said one box was located in Tokyo after a Japanese reported to Americans he know of a place "where diamonds are scattered all over."

American army intelligence then uncovered other hiding places which yielded gallons of diamonds, often in flimsy containers such as shoe boxes. The gems were "in a confused condition. Dirty and mixed with worthless debris," the army announcement said.

SULZER DIES; NOTED CARVER

John K. Sulzer, 82, well-known metal carver and hobbyist, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ralph Davis, 129 Rowland avenue, Thursday afternoon after a lingering illness.

Mr. Sulzer was born in Zurich, Switzerland, April 18, 1864, and came to the United States and Mansfield 62 years ago. He was a member of St. John's Evangelical church, the Mansfield Hobby club and the German Pioneer society.

Following his retirement from the old Altman and Taylor company, where he had been a tool and die maker for 27 years, Mr. Sulzer continued as a hobby his carving in metal at his home on Chestnut street. His most intricate displays were two locomotives, parts for which he made entirely by hand.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Davis, is another daughter, Mrs. Anna Tobias of Alhambra, Calif., two sisters, Mrs. John Dirr of Mansfield; and Mrs. John Loosly of Louisville, Ky.; five grandchildren; three great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. from the Geiger funeral home with burial in Mansfield cemetery. Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger will officiate.

EXPLOSION VICTIM DIES IN HOSPITAL

BUCYRUS—Ira Schifer, 23, who early yesterday was burned seriously when kerosene with which he was attempting to light a fire exploded, died at 4:20 p. m. yesterday at Bucyrus City hospital.

His wife, Ivie, also burned in the explosion was reported at noon today to be in a "serious" condition by hospital attaches.

A veteran of service with the Army signal corps in Europe where he married while stationed in England, Mr. Schifer is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schifer of Lykens, in addition to his wife.

Five brothers, Paul, Fred, Vern, Dale and Ralph, all at home; five sisters, Lucille, Mildred and Mrs. Virgil Marquart, all of Bucyrus, and Barbara and Helen, at home, also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Union Leader Ordered Into Court Monday

Mine Boss Offers No Comment After Accepting Court Paper From Two Federal Marshals.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two federal marshals served John L. Lewis with a summons today requiring his appearance in federal court Monday morning to answer a contempt citation resulting from the soft coal strike.

Lewis accepted the summons in his private office "without comment," an aide reported.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough last night ordered Lewis to show why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to withdraw his contract termination notice—the signal which led to the walk-out of his 400,000 bituminous coal miners.

The two federal deputies went to Lewis' office a few minutes after he arrived at union headquarters from his home in nearby Alexandria, Va., where he had been in seclusion for the last 36 hours.

The deputies ascended to Lewis' sixth-floor office in the union building where the mine leader was waiting for them.

The marshals were with Lewis only a few minutes and then left.

* * *

Drives Into Capital.

Apparently in good spirits, the mine union chief emerged from his home at 10 a. m. for the short drive into the capital.

He stood on his porch to pose for cameramen, his cane on his arm, and a cigar in his hand.

"Take your time, boys," Lewis said.

To reporters he said he had no statement to make other than that he was headed for United Mine Workers headquarters in Washington.

A crowd that gathered around Lewis' suburban Virginia home yesterday had dwindled away. Only reporters and photographers were on hand when he emerged.

The writ is another step toward possible clanging of jail doors in the UMW chieftain's face. It directs him to appear before U. S. District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough on Monday and tell why he did not honor an order to recall his contract "termination" of Wednesday night.

* * *

Next Step's Jury.

If Lewis fails then to clear himself of the contempt charge—possibly by calling off his "termination" notice or by showing that his stand is lawful—the next step will come Wednesday. On that day, Judge Goldsborough "with an advisory jury" will decide Lewis' guilt or innocence.

If convicted, the union might be fined and Lewis sent to jail, until he obeys the court.

The contempt citation was issued late yesterday. It was not served immediately because Lewis had gone to his home in Alexandria, Va., and it had to be served in the District of Columbia.

* * *

Tension Mounts.

In the mine fields, tension mounted as the idle miners watched the struggle between their leader and the government. Two men were shot fatally in West Virginia in the first major flare-up of violence.

Railroads, steel mills and their customers, public utilities and other big users of soft coal began battening down for the worst—a protracted work stoppage in the 3,300 government-held mines.

A "brownout" to save fuel darkened the capitol dome itself, while Republican and Democratic congress members joined in demands for extraordinary measures. Some asked a special session of congress but men close to President Truman said that was unlikely.

President Truman, still on vacation at Key West, Fla., likewise had nothing to divulge on the administration's plans for getting the mines back into production.

Westinghouse Corp. Builds Big Motors

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Four 65,000 horsepower motors—each as big as a six-room house—will be built by Westinghouse Electric corporation for use at Grand Coulee dam, L. B. McCully, manager of the firm's transportation and generator division, disclosed today.

The electric motors, which are more than 50 per cent larger than the most powerful single alternating current motor now in existence, have been ordered by the federal government. They will pump water from the dam into semi-arid regions of south-central Washington state.

CIO DEMANDS BAN ON BOMB

Discussions Condemn Moves For Anti-Labor Laws By New Congress.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —(UP) —The Cio today demanded a halt in the stockpiling of atom bombs but only after CIO President Philip Murray choked off a heated verbal exchange by two delegates and took two votes to determine that a majority supported the resolution.

Murray called up the resolution shortly after the convention got off to an early start.

The convention immediately returned to domestic resolutions condemning federal and state "anti-labor legislation" and alleged national labor relations board bias against the CIO. Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, urged adoption of these resolutions and another asserting that the 80th congress "has been given no mandate for reaction."

"We will not permit the reactionary open-shop employers of America and their legislative spokesmen to substitute for democratic labor relations laws the law of the jungle," the anti-labor legislation resolution stated.

Jack Altman, vice president of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store employes, and Van A. Bittner, chairman of the resolutions committee, engaged in a brief verbal battle over the foreign policy resolution.

Altman failed to win permission to offer amendments to the resolution which he claimed was conflicting and not strong enough in parts. He said that the criticism of fascism "was not enough."

Bittner gained the floor to say that the foreign policy resolution was recommended unanimously to the convention by the 28-man resolutions committee.

"As far as my foreign policy is concerned, I'm for the United States of America and this resolution backs up every act taken by the United States," he said.

SUN'S ECLIPSE VISIBLE IN CITY

If skies aren't too cloudy tomorrow, Mansfielders will see a 50 per cent eclipse of the sun around 12:10 p. m.

The eclipse, which will be visible in most of the United States and Canada, is one of cycle of eight solar eclipses which are occurring at intervals of six lunar months.

Shadow of the moon will begin to show on the sun between 10:30 and 11 a. m., and the peak will be reached shortly after noon. The shadow will leave the sun before 2 p. m.

This cycle of eclipses began last spring with the eclipse of May 30, and will end after the eclipse of Oct. 21, 1949. The intervening eclipses are scheduled for: 1947-May 20, and Nov. 12; 1948—May 9 and Nov. 1; 1949—April 28.

The eclipse Saturday will cover more of the sun in New England. In California the eclipse will be over before breakfast.

MILLIGAN NAMED

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Governor-elect Thomas J. Herbert named Fred J. Milligan, Columbus attorney and state commander of Amvets to the post of secretary to the governor today in the forthcoming Republican administration.

Story of Missionary's Help to Navy Emerges From Realm of War Secrets

OBERLIN — (AP) — From the realm of wartime secrets today came the story of how the personal journal of Miss Alice Cowles Little, retired missionary now nearing 80, had navy intelligence officers beating a path to her cottage door.

From the journal, filled with what might have seemed trivial at another time, the navy culled information that helped give it open sesame to the Caroline, Marshall and Gilbert islands—springboards for the Japanese attack in the Pacific.

Miss Little was just graduated from Oberlin college when, in 1888, she went to the missionary school on Kusaie, an island in about the center of the Caroline-Marshall-Gilbert archipelago.

Children from all three island groups attended the missionary school and once yearly were returned to their homes aboard the missionary steamer, The Morning Star.

On these annual trips Miss Little wrote copiously with the enthusiasm of a traveler seeing strange places for the first time. From the Morning Star's skipper, Capt. George F. Garland, she learned about the channels and tides and hidden reefs. Capt. Garland, now 94, now lives at Miss Little's home.

Visiting Makin, Tarawa, Truk and Kwajalein, she noted the depths of channels, locations of alternate passages, width of beaches, height of promontories, the types of vegetation, locations of caves and flat strips.

Her journal was kept primarily for the satisfaction of her missionary board. For warfare, it became invaluable.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

It's a Bright, New World, Maybe, But 'Good Old Days' Had Some Points, Too

"It's gonna make the readers mad—and hungry," the city editor said, then adding with a gleam in his eye, "but do it anyway."

So we blew 10 years' dust off the files, sat ourselves down and wept! It's a sad assignment to read the papers in the days when sugar was in every kitchen, butter in every refrigerator and houses and apartments so plentiful that realtors "dressed up" the rental ads.

One-cent sales on soap, today's luxury, were common. In fact, everything else was plentiful, including a round steak at 25 cents a pound, bananas at four pounds for a quarter, men's shirts for $1.49 and $2. Automobile salesmen begged for a chance to "just take you for a ride" in the new deluxe model, and new brick homes were yours for $500 down and easy payments until the $6,500 was wiped off the books!

Shaking off five years' dust we came up to the spring of 1941, only a few months before Pearl Harbor and the inflationary period of the war years.

Those Good Old Days!

Soap was still plentiful, butter sold for 37 cents a pound, "guaranteed" tires were advertised, sugar-cured, smoked ham was selling for 19 cents a pound, a good car cost around $750 and furniture stores staged big annual sales offering 20 and 30 per cent off. A place to live was one of the easiest and most reasonable things you could get.

If you're not angry now, you will be. But first we'll make you hungry.

In 1936, meat markets and groceries advertised pork roasts at 13½ cents a pound, butter was 34 cents, bread was two loaves for 15 cents, two giant boxes of soap chips could be bought for 29 cents, and coffee was 21 and 25 cents a pound, depending on the brand.

Baby beef round steak was a little higher than the usual cuts of meat at 25 cents a pound, smoked sausage was 29 cents, sliced bacon was 18 cents a half pound, and ground meat was 15 cents.

Oranges were selling for 19 cents a dozen and apples were four pounds for a quarter.

Ten-pound turkeys were being given away with the purchase of a living room suite or gas range 10 years ago this month, and damask linen table cloths ranged from $2.98 to $10.98. "The Charge of the Light Brigade" was featuring Errol Flynn and Olivia DeHaviland at the Ohio theater and cartoons were playing up the under-fed turkeys eyeing a pan of food, marked "better business."

Silk Hose at 59c.

The little lady of the house could stock up on real silk hose at 59 cents a pair. "Good" ladies' dresses cost from $3.95 to $10 and that extra special evening dress cost only $16.95. Maybe Dad didn't bring home such a fat pay check, but he didn't need it for the prices which prevailed. Men's suits of top quality sold from $18.50 to $25 and topcoats ranged from $18.50 to $22.50.

Children's shoes of kid and calf leathers sold from $2.68 to $3.95.

In November, 1936, rental ads averaged around 30 per day for houses, apartments and light housekeeping rooms. Most of the houses were advertised at $20 and $25 a month for a "newly-decorated beautiful residence, with spacious lot and two-car garage."

Mansfield was planning its first big automobile show and showrooms were jammed with 1937 models which averaged between $660 and $1,000. Eight-cylinder Oldsmobiles were $785, Studebakers were $665. Dodges were $640 and LaSalle and Buick led the "upper crust" of the latest sleek jobs at around $995.

Things weren't too tough in 1941 with round steak 31 cents a pound, center cuts of ham at 32 cents, potatoes at 22 cents a peck and nylons beginning to show up in sizeable quantities in department stores. In April of that year, pineapple sold at 10 cents per fruit, well known brands of bar laundry soap was 10 for 33 cents, vegetable shortening was 17 cents a pound, and grapefruit was 35 cents a dozen.

Chickens were 27 cents a pound dressed, tuna fish was two cans for a quarter and pork chops were 25 cents a pound.

A man could buy an all-silk tie for 55 cents or two for $1 then, and an Easter suit cost him between $16.95 and $49.50 depending upon the material and quality. Shirts, white, striped, patterned and in colors, sold anywhere from $1.55 to $2.95.

Nylons were sold regularly at $1.35 a pair, silk hose advanced slightly to $1, and 22 by 44 inch "extra heavy" bath towels were 25 cents apiece.

Ads Gave Good Advice.

Newspaper ads of department and furniture stores carried the advice, "Don't Wait—Buy Now!" Perhaps they were right. Vacuum cleaners were $48.50 in those days, broadloom carpet sold from $2.85 to $6.25 a yard and a solid oak dining room suite was $198. That amount today will just about buy a stove and a kitchen stool—if the stool isn't too expensive.

And so, closing the books, we're jolted back to the world of reality, sugar shortages, 90-cents-a-pound butter, very few white shirts at any price, and an average of 10 daily "wanted to rent" ads.

BANS BALSAM TREES

NEW YORK—(INS)—There will be no Christmas trees this year in New York hotels, theaters, department stores and restaurants. The fire department today banned all balsam Christmas trees from places of "public assembly."

MINISTER RETIRES

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—The Rev. Charles Tevis, pastor of Foster Memorial Presbyterian church here for the past 26 years, announced today his plans to retire next Jan. 1 because of ill health. Mr. Tevis entered the ministry only four years before he assumed the pastorate of Foster Memorial.

THIS IS O'NEIL'S of Mansfield

Dear Mansfield:

HERE'S THAT O'NEIL MAN AGAIN!

He's just driven up in his bright brown-and-gold delivery truck, to bring you the merchandise you bought yesterday at O'Neil's.

Yes, prompt delivery is a daily part of the service which will soon be yours at O'Neil's of Mansfield.

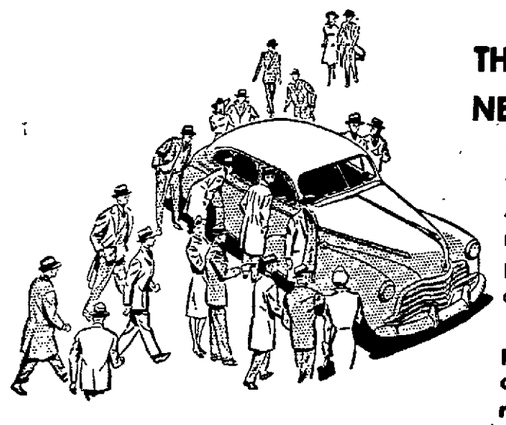
Three trucks will establish a delivery schedule from O'Neil's store, and from our warehouse right in Mansfield, so you can be sure of getting what you bought without delay.

This delivery service is not only for metropolitan Mansfield; O'Neil's trucks will travel the highways for miles around town, too.

Sincerely,

O'NEIL'S
OF MANSFIELD

P. S.: Have you seen those huge trucks and trailers which bring merchandise from Akron to O'Neil's store and warehouse in Mansfield? They're really something!



THERE SIMPLY ARE NOT ENOUGH NEW CHEVROLETS TO GO AROUND

We are getting our fair share of the current production of new Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks. And as strikes and shortages decrease, as the Chevrolet plants are able to produce more and more new passenger cars and trucks, we'll get more and more of them to deliver to our customers.

Meanwhile, as long as shortages do exist, it is our purpose to apportion our share of the new Chevrolets available fairly and justly among the many customers, new and old, whose continued friendship and patronage are the keystone of our business.

So that you may have no doubt as to our method of distribution of new Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks, we make the following—

DECLARATION OF POLICY

1. PRIORITY OF DELIVERY—New Chevrolet cars and trucks will be apportioned on the basis of: (1) essential public services, (2) veterans' occupational requirements, (3) priority of date in placing orders.

2. PRICES—All new Chevrolet cars and trucks will be sold at the authorized prices current at time of delivery.

3. TRADE-INS—No trade-in will be required from any customer who does not have a car to dispose of at the time of the transaction. Customers who do have cars will be given allowances based on honest appraisal and fair value at the time of delivery.

4. ACCESSORIES—No customer will be asked to purchase accessories as a condition of securing delivery.

5. STATUS OF ORDERS—Customers will be informed, upon request, of the true status of their orders in our files.

6. NEW ORDERS—We welcome your order for a new Chevrolet at any time.

WE THANK YOU FOR YOUR PATIENCE AND LOYALTY IN AWAITING DELIVERY OF YOUR NEW CHEVROLET

High-Scoring Rebels Meet Defensive Knickerbockers

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Cleveland's dashing Rebels, highest scorers in the newly-formed Basketball Association of America, run into one of the league's better defensive teams tomorrow night in New York.

While Cleveland has been averaging 78 points per game and winning three and losing two, the Knickerbockers have used their defensive ability to take five of their seven games and the Eastern Division lead.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED

WILLARD — The Junior Child Conservation league's newly elected officers are: Mrs. Walter Drury, president; Mrs. Wilbur Klopfenstein, first vice president; Mrs. Rodney Owens, second vice president; Mrs. Delford Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Donald Durbin, treasurer; and Mrs. Raymond Holmes, reporter.

Yank Money Talks

NEW YORK—(INS)—Bucky Harris, new manager of the New York Yankees, was hopeful today of acquiring First Baseman Mickey Vernon from the Washington Senators. Harris said: "We may make Clark Griffith an offer that he can't very well turn down."

FACE LOSS OF HOMES

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (UP) — Striking carpenters at Ladd army air base have been warned turn to work immediately or face loss of their living quarters.

Lloyd Martin, resident U. S. engineer, told the 180 carpenters their service would be terminated unless they returned to work. Termination of services would mean loss of living quarters, he warned.

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to thank our friends, neighbors, relatives and out of town relatives for the kindness shown at the death of our beloved husband and father, Emery Kapina. We especially wish to thank those who sent flowers, Msgr. Goebel, Geiger funeral home for their splendid services, and all those who assisted in any way.

Mrs. Emery Kapina,
Steven, William, Albert, Helen and Ann.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of my mother, Mrs. Curt Crowner, who passed away 6 years ago today. Gone but not forgotten. Badly missed by your daughter.
Jessie Shambaugh and sisters.

3—In Memoriam

THIS DATE recalls sad memories
Seems twice as long to us.
Only God knows how much we miss you.
You meant so much to us,
Though your smile is gone forever,
And your face we cannot touch,
We still have sweet memories
Of you we loved so much.
Mrs. Clifford McNeely and Children.

FOR INTERESTING WORK IN JAPAN
EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

U.S. Army Ground Forces units now on peacetime duty in the Far East include some of the most famous combat divisions of the war. The First Cavalry Division, for example, now mechanized in Japan, made an unforgetable record. It was the first U. S. unit that reached Manila and Tokyo, and received Distinguished Unit citations for action on Los Negros, Kwajalein and Leyte.

Picked young men who can meet the high standards of the Regular Army, and who enlist for three years, can now join this great division, after initial training in the U. S., and help enforce peace in the Orient.

Service in the Far East today provides excellent living conditions and recreation facilities. Sightseeng is encouraged. Swimming pools, athletic fields, well-equipped clubs are available to soldiers. Overseas pay, 20% higher than at home, starts at $90 a month for a Private, plus food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care and other benefits. Enlistments open to men 18 to 34 inclusive (17 with parents' consent). Full details at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Mansfield, Ohio.

8 room, 2 family home, close in, on West Fifth street. This has a nice large lot, a good place for a business, church, lodge, home, and many other different purposes. Will trade for suburban home, might consider car, truck, or anything worth the money, as part payment. See Harry Sites at Ohio Realty Co., or 223 S. Mulberry.

Large Stone Front Bungalow

We have just listed one of the most beautiful bungalows in the city and one that cannot be duplicated today at any price.

Built in 1941 by one of our best builders it has everything of the finest built into it. There is a large living room with coal or wood burning fireplace made from Indiana sandstone with gum wood mantle, large dinette and a kitchen that is a woman's delight with just lots and lots of cupboard space. Has 2 large airy bedrooms that can accommodate twin beds. The bath has all the very latest features with linen cupboard and white tile walls. Full cement basement with good furnace and controlled gas heat. There is also a very large recreation room with a long bar and mantle. Attached garage with cement floor and fully plastered walls and ceilings and with full cement drive to street.

This lovely home is located southwest and rests on a lot 60x155 ft. Lots of shrubs. Anyone that is interested in a fine home should call now, it will be a long time before another bungalow can be built like it.

High-Scoring Rebels Meet Defensive Knickerbockers

CLEVELAND — (NS) — Cleveland's dashing Rebels, highest scorers in the newly-formed Basketball Association of America, run into one of the league's better defensive teams tomorrow night in New York.

While Cleveland has been averaging 78 points per game and winning three and losing two, the Knickerbockers have used their defensive ability to take five of their seven games and the Eastern Division lead.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED

WILLARD — The Junior Child Conservation league's newly elected officers are: Mrs. Walter Drury, president; Mrs. Wilbur Klopfenstein, first vice president; Mrs. Rodney Owens, second vice president; Mrs. Delford Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Donald Durbin, treasurer; and Mrs. Raymond Holmes, reporter.

Yank Money Talks

NEW YORK—(INS)—Bucky Harris, new manager of the New York Yankees, was hopeful today of acquiring First Baseman Mickey Vernon from the Washington Senators. Harris said: "We may make Clark Griffith an offer that he can't very well turn down."

FACE LOSS OF HOMES

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (U.P.) — Striking carpenters at Ladd army air base have been warned turn to work immediately or face loss of their living quarters.

Lloyd Martin, resident U. S. engineer, told the 180 carpenters their service would be terminated unless they returned to work. Termination of services would mean loss of living quarters, he warned.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of my mother, Mrs. Curt Crowner, who passed away 6 years ago today. Gone but not forgotten. Badly missed by your daughter.
Jessie Shambaugh and sisters.

3—In Memoriam

THIS DATE recalls sad memories
Seems twice as long to us.
Only God knows how much we miss you.
You meant so much to us.
Though your smile is gone forever,
And your face we cannot touch,
We still have sweet memories
Of you we loved so much.
Mrs. Clifford McNeely and Children.

PICKED MEN
Wanted
FOR INTERESTING WORK IN JAPAN
EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

U. S. Army Ground Forces units now on peacetime duty in the Far East include some of the most famous combat divisions of the war. The First Cavalry Division, for example, now mechanized in Japan, made an unforgetable record. It was the first U. S. unit that reached Manila and Tokyo, and received Distinguished Unit citations for action on Los Negros, Kwajalein and Leyte.

Picked young men who can meet the high standards of the Regular Army, and who enlist for three years, can now join this great division, after initial training in the U. S., and help enforce peace in the Orient.

Service in the Far East today provides excellent living conditions and recreation facilities. Sightseeing is encouraged. Swimming pools, athletic fields, well-equipped clubs are available to soldiers. Overseas pay, 20% higher than at home, starts at $90 a month for a Private, plus food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care and other benefits. Enlistments open to men 18 to 34 inclusive (17 with parents' consent). Full details at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Mansfield, Ohio.

8 rm. 2 family home, close in, on Nat. Fifth street. This has a nice large lot, a good place for a business, church, lodge, home, and many other different purposes. Will trade for suburban home, might consider car, truck, or anything worth the money, as part payment. See Harry Sites at Ohio Realty Co., or 223 S. Mulberry.

Lage Stone Front Bungalow

We have just listed one of the most beautiful bungalows in the city at one that cannot be duplicated today at any price.

Built in 1941 by one of our best builders it has everything of the finest built into it. There is a large living room with coal or wood burning fireplace made from Indiana sandstone with gum wood mantle, large dinette and a kitchen that is a woman's delight with just loads of cupboard space. Has large airy bedrooms that can accommodate twin beds. The bath has all the very latest features with tub, cupboard and white tile walls, full cement basement with good furnace and controlled gas heat. There is also a very large recreation room with a long bar and mantle. Attached garage with cement floor and fully plastered walls and ceilings and with full cement drive to street.

This lovely home is located southeast and rests on a lot 60x155 ft. Lot of shrubs. Anyone that is interested in a fine home should call us, it will be a long time before another bungalow can be built like it.

THEN I'LL SIT AROUND AND TAL
YOU CAN'T FIND ANYTHING GOOD FOR SANDWICHES, AND EVERYBODY WOULD BE BORED TO DEATH. BUT IT'S JUST LIKE A MAN!

RIP KIRBY

BUT I TELL YOU, KIRBY, I NEVER WRITE LOVE LETTERS! WHOEVER FORGED THEM THREATENS TO TELL MY WIFE!
THE LETTERS MUST BE ADDRESSED TO CERTAIN WOMEN WHERE DID THE FORGER GET THE NAMES?
AS A TOP ORCHESTRA LEADER, I'VE BEEN SEEN IN THE COMPANY OF MANY WELL-KNOWN WOMEN.
WHAT ABOUT YOUR REPUTATION AS A LADIES' MAN, RIVERS? ARE YOU BEING ABSOLUTELY SQUARE WITH ME?
OI...ALL RIGHT, KIRBY! THE LADIES GO FOR ME AND I LIKE THEM, BUT I LOVE MY WIFE AND FAMILY! I'VE NEVER WRITTEN LOVE LETTERS TO ANYONE ELSE!
HERE IS A SPOT IN WHICH I COULD PREACH— BUT I SHALL RESIST...

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

From the big rock with the overhang Peter Rabbit slowly made his way home to the dear Old Briarpatch. He was a puzzled Rabbit. Yes, sir, he was a puzzled Rabbit. What had become of Madam Dauber and her family? What had become of Cousin Flitwing and her family? All summer both had lived under the overhang of that rock. Madam Dauber, a mason, had built an apartment house of mud or clay containing a number of adjoining rooms. These rooms were round, like short tubes open at one end. Cousin Flitwing had a bigger apartment house of many six-sided rooms which adjoined. There were no outer walls. Those rooms were of stout gray paper which she had made from wood pulp. She had first made the pulp.

"Those houses are empty. No one is living in either of them. I could look into every room and there isn't a sign of any one in any of them," Peter told Mrs. Peter.

"What of it? The nests of all the birds are empty, too. What do you expect at this time of year?" said Mrs. Peter. Plainly she wasn't interested.

"Empty birds' nests are different. We know most of the birds go to the Sunny South for the winter. Those who don't we see around. But what do Madam Baldface and Madam Dauber and Cousin Flitwing and their families do in cold weather?" retorted Peter.

"Probably wish it was warm weather again," said Mrs. Peter drily.

Peter took no notice of this. He was looking up at the big home of Madam Baldface, now silent and seeming deserted. "We don't even know if they are alive," said he gravely. "They couldn't fly to the Sunny South like the birds."

"Why couldn't they? Some Butterflies do," Mrs. Peter interrupted.

Peter went right on as if she hadn't spoken. "They haven't gone to sleep in their homes. Anyway Madam Dauber and Cousin Flitwing haven't. Perhaps Madam Baldface has up in that big home of her's. It looks like a good place in which to spend the winter. I wish I could look inside."

"Foolish wishing again. You certainly do a lot of it, Peter Rabbit," declared little Mrs. Peter. "Perhaps she is dead. Perhaps all of them are dead. Perhaps, like the Butterflies and the Moths, they die when cold weather comes."

Peter shook his head. "If they are all dead how can there be any Wasps next summer?" he asked.

"I don't know. What is more, I don't care. There will be. You may depend upon it. There will be just as many as ever and they will be just as hot-tempered," declared Mrs. Peter.

"Butterflies and Moths lay eggs in the summer. From these come caterpillars. Caterpillars really are young Butterflies or Moths, you know. Funny, isn't it? But that is how it is. Caterpillars wrap themselves up and sleep all winter. When they wake up after winter is over they are Butterflies or Moths. Wasps don't do that. So what becomes of them when cold weather comes? Tell me that," said Peter.

"It is none of my business and I'm not interested," declared Mrs. Peter.

"Well, I am," retorted Peter. "Somehow I am going to find out. All those Wasps that were here all summer have disappeared. If they have gone away where have they gone to? If all have been killed how can there be any next year? It would be queer not to have any Wasps around."

"I wouldn't miss them," said Mrs. Peter.

"Jimmy Skunk would," chuckled Peter. You know some of those Yellow Jackets make their homes in the ground. When Jimmy finds one he digs it out and eats all the young and the old ones, too.

"He is welcome to them," said Mrs. Peter.

It was the very next day that quite by chance Peter noticed some one just disappearing beneath a loose piece of bark on an old stump. As usual he was curious. He stopped to look. In a moment a head appeared from beneath that bark. Then out walked Cousin Flitwing. Peter could hardly believe his own eyes.

The next story: "Cousin Flitwing Is Anxious."

SWEDEN WON'T BUY FROM BLACK MARKET

GALION—"There is no black market in Sweden because people there will not buy if articles are priced higher than they think they should be," Elmer Hedeen, president of the Mansfield Metal Vault company and a native of Sweden told the Galion Kiwanis club this week.

Stating that there are lots of American-made cars for sale and there is food aplenty in Sweden, Hedeen said some wealthy English families go there on 60-day orders just to have plenty to eat.

Hedeen gathered his facts, he said, while on a visit to his native country last summer to see his mother. In addition to his talk, moving pictures taken on his visit were shown at the luncheon meeting of the club at Hotel Talbott.

INDUSTRY HERE FACES SLOW-UP

117 from Pittsburgh to Detroit, which arrives at 4:23 p. m.

A total of 42 daily trains operated by the Pennsylvania will be cancelled Sunday in order to comply with the Office of Defense Transportation order requiring a 25 per cent curtailment of passenger train service starting Sunday.

The Erie railroad announced that no passenger trains serving Mansfield will be cut off, as the suspension of two baggage and express trains between Jersey City, N. J., and Chicago will accomplish the required reduction.

The Baltimore and Ohio, which operates only two daily passenger trains through Mansfield, said no reduction was contemplated here.

Empire 'In Good Shape.'

Other large industries here reported sufficient coal and steel supplies in stock to continue operations indefinitely. Officials warned, however, that a prolonged coal strike "naturally" would affect Mansfield as well as the rest of the country.

William Lake, vice president of the Empire Steel corporation, said the firm was "in pretty good shape" and estimated production could continue for 60 to 90 days.

M. V. Rutherford, mill manager at the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing, Inc., said the plant has coal "to last awhile."

"It's the same story for all of us," he said. "All industry will be affected eventually if the strike continues."

A spokesman at the Ohio Brass company said the plant is maintaining "30 to 45-day inventories" on all materials, including coal and steel.

Westinghouse Electric corporation issued a statement pointing out that coal at the plant here is used "primarily for heating."

"Our use (of coal) therefore is largely determined by the weather," the statement continued. "The best estimate now is that we have between a 30 and 45 day stock of coal. If the weather turns unusually cold, the time naturally would be shortened."

Still Cheerful.

The fugitives today continued their attitude of unconcern, and police said they spent their time in the jail by singing and joking.

The four men fled Grafton honor camp, where they had been transferred from the OSR last Sunday, early Tuesday morning and were captured near Millersburg early yesterday.

During the 24-hour period, according to police and state highway patrol reports, the fugitives:

Picked up the Smith girl in Mansfield Tuesday, and late Tuesday night, wrecked a stolen automobile in which they were riding in an accident on U. S. Route 42, south of Lexington.

After the accident, in which two Mansfield residents were injured, the quintet fled from the scene and, using the girl as a decoy, stopped the car containing Bell and Leedy near a nightclub on Route 42 outside Mansfield.

Bell and Leedy were forced to accompany the youths on a wild ride through central Ohio, and were robbed and abandoned near Columbus.

Then the quintet went to Lancaster, where they were reported to have held up Stanko and exchanged the first stolen car for Stanko's automobile, forcing him ot accompany them.

Stanko, who was robbed of $240, was with the youths when they were captured at a road block near Millersburg. He said he had been threatened with a shotgun but was unharmed.

The body will remain at the T. B. Gilbert funeral home until 9 a. m. Monday when it will be removed to the residence for services at 2 p. m. in charge of Rev. H. A. Hall, Methodist minister. Burial will be in Loudonville cemetery.

Oft-Arrested Man Fined $160, Costs

BUCYRUS—Three fines aggregating $160 were assessed against Robert Lovell, Bucyrus R. D. 2, when he was arraigned on three separate charges in mayor's court Thursday. Lovell, who has a long police record, was fined $100 on a charge of drunken driving; $50 for failing to stop after an accident, and $10 for operating without a driver's license.

A 60-day jail sentence was suspended on condition that $50 of the fines be paid at once and a satisfactory arrangement made to pay the remainder. Lovell was arrested Wednesday after his car was involved in a traffic accident with a car operated by Mrs. Charles Schaber.

Among the Teen-agers—

City's Young People to Have 2 Recreation Centers Soon

By MARGUERITE MILLER

TWO MONTHS AGO you fellows and gals were clamoring for Teen clubs—someplace where you could dance, meet your friends and drink a coke.

Well, a few Mansfielders heard you. Today you have one center at Liberty park already proving its worth by overflowing attendance and another due within two weeks. These centers were started because YOU wanted them, not because some of the busiest men and women in town, who are backing the centers, had nothing else to do. Now it's your job to follow through — get behind these centers and give them the cooperation they'll need to make them a permanent fixture in the city.

NOMINATED for first place this week on our teen list are members of the youth group of the First Congregational church. Every spare moment they have goes into the redecorating of one large room at the Parish house on Park avenue west which becomes their own teen center in two weeks. According to the pastor, Rev. Matthew Madden, the center will be open to all boys and girls in the vicinity, regardless of church affiliation. This is the first church in the city to rally to the teen-agers' cry. Perhaps if the center is supported, other churches will follow suit.

The Congregational center, which will be used extensively on Sunday afternoons and evenings for fellowship, worship and dinner sessions, is also planned to be open through the week under supervision. As Rev. Madden put it, "It's strictly up to the boys and girls—how they want to decorate their room and what sort of recreation they choose."

* * *

THERE'S NO DOUBT but that Teen clubs throughout the country are here to stay. Since the war they've sprung up in practically every city, town and village. A recent estimate placed the number of centers at 3,780, but we suspect that that's low. Most of them have been set up under a city-wide recreation program, which your own city will have in the near future.

Supported through the taxes which your own Dads and Moms pay every year, the program will be set up to appeal to the largest percentage of the membership, affording music, arts, sports, dramatics and crafts. It might be well to start planning those recreation evenings soon, because more and more teen centers are bound to follow in the program.

CARNIVAL spirit will prevail Saturday night in the Senior high gym with the Sophomore choir staging the entertainment to pay for those good looking new robes they're wearing.

A new organization formed this fall, the group is led by A. LeMoine Derr, director of vocal music in the high schools. The choir is headed in the student body by Harry Osbun. One hundred and six fellows and gals have turned out for the choir so far, and so it behooves each and every one of you to turn out at the gym from 6:30 to 10:30 p. m. Saturday for movies, cokes and a bake sale.

LICENSE SOUGHT

BUCYRUS — Application for a marriage license has been filed in probate court by Edward Charles Ringel, 35, and Louise Hughes, 29, both of Galion.

AIR SERVICE GIVEN 30-DAY EXTENSION

The Harrington Air Service today had been granted 30 days in which to plead its case in the suit filed by Arthur Cornell, Shelby, seeking to evict the company from two hangars at municipal airport. Cornell contends he has not been paid rental fees.

Atty. C. H. Henkel, who filed the application, referred to the involuntary petition for bankruptcy filed against the company Nov. 9, in the Cleveland Federal District court.

In asking for additional time, Henkel stated that one of two things could happen. According to bankruptcy procedure, the case could be referred to a referee and the defendant's business liquidated, or the defendants, with the cooperation of the creditors, could file a petition setting forth a plan of arrangements with the creditors under Chapter XI of the bankruptcy act.

CHILD RECOVERS

BUCYRUS — Shirley Bartholomew, nine-year-old Harpster girl who sustained a fractured skull when she was struck by a car while riding her bicycle in Harpster Nov. 5, was discharged from City hospital Tuesday.

There's Action and History In New Library Fiction List

Just off the press is HOLDFAST GAINES, a new historical novel by Odell and Willard Shepard, which leads the list of fiction to be put in circulation at the Mansfield Public library Monday.

A lengthy, closely woven novel of the years, 1770-1815, the story sweeps from New London to Nashville to New Orleans, and from the burning of New London to the victory at New Orleans. Its chief character is Holdfast Gaines, a Connecticut Indian who is haunted by a self-imposed task of saving the Indian tribes from the white settlers as they spread inexorably westward.

In the novel, the Shepards have developed Gaines as a man of immense strength and great nobility of character.

* * *

Nobel Prize Winner Pearl Buck comes out with a new book about China in PAVILION OF WOMEN. This novel, which will be released with the other fiction is a story of a great family of landed gentry in China, well-to-do, cultivated and aware. Deviating slightly from her former hard and fast Chinese characters, Miss Buck paints not a simple saga of the Eastern country, but of the relationships of men and women everywhere.

Other fiction includes TO SEE A FINE LADY, by Lofts; BREATH NO MORE, MY LADY, by Marting; ESQUIRE'S SECOND SPORTS READER, by Gingrich; ROYAL TWILIGHT, by Fitzgay; PANIC-STRICKEN by Wilson, and HOMECOMING by Wechsberg.

* * *

LOST MEN OF AMERICAN HISTORY, by Stewart Holbrook, heads the non-fiction list as a collection of chapters about neglected figures from America's past who, in their time, influenced the course of events. Skillful at character sketching, the author has ferreted out telling details and interesting events from 1620 to Pearl Harbor to make this an unconventional history book.

A recent addition to the literary field which has gained widespread recognition is COLOR BLIND, by Margaret Halsey. In this revelation of the extent of racial prejudices in America, Miss Halsey bases her conclusions on her experiences as a senior hostess at New York's Stage Door Canteen. She points out how cynics have handicapped decent people by inventing an emotional and unscientific swamp of fears and shows how honest people can write and live up to a new set of rules and enjoy doing it.

Entertaining and informative is Merriman Smith's book, THANK YOU, MR. PRESIDENT, a book about the White House press conferences during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations. The author is an ace reporter.

Other non-fiction includes FIRST STEPS IN COOKING, by Shepard; INTO THE FREEZER AND OUT, by Tressler; HOMEBOOK OF MONEY SAVING FORMULAS, by Doring; AMERICAN CAPITALISM VS. RUSSIAN COMMUNISM, by Peters; FOR THIS WE FOUGHT, by Chase; AUTUMN LEAVES, by Litchfield; ROAD TO REFORMATION, by Boehmer; PIKES PEAK OR BUST, by Wilson, and YES AND NO STORIES, by Papashvily.

PILES ARE NEVER MILD

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

PAGE SIX MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1946

That "Had enough?" pre-election slogan might well be resumed until the John L. Lewis case is disposed of.

As Fred H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, puts it: "Any car is only as safe as the driver."

Republicans are now approaching the interesting prospect of reducing taxes, keeping up the armed forces and cutting the national debt—which is a nice trick, if you can do it.

Lewis Symbolizes National Problem

WHILE public condemnation is being chiefly directed toward John L. Lewis, as instigator of the present strike by soft coal miners, it would appear fairer to consider Lewis as no more than the symbol of a dangerous national cleavage, rather than as an individual bent on a destructive and law-defying course.

Lewis, in a big way, reflects an attitude of labor leadership which has become evident—in small ways—all over the country, and it is his superior ability in that type of leadership that now places him in the dictatorial position which makes it possible to jeopardize the entire national welfare.

Possibly it is the flaunting of luxurious wealth—as it is appearing in the fabulous prices in vogue in big cities and the tremendous spending spree being indulged in at various pleasure resorts—that is creating unrest among the millions who are required to work hard and long for a bare living.

Although such extremes are assumed to be justified by variations in individual ability, there are enough instances in which inherited wealth has provided the means of easy living, to arouse discontent among those not so favored by the accident of birth.

These are isolated cases, it is true, but they are sufficiently obvious in all communities to provide a basis for contrast between those who find it necessary to work hard, day after day, and to live within a relatively small income, and those who are in position to live sumptuously without expenditure of greater effort than to draw dividends from inherited wealth.

It would be impracticable, to be sure, to depend upon each wage or salary earner to decide on the amount of compensation his or her services are "worth," although this is along the line of group procedure in attempting to fix wage scales in various lines of employment.

Tendency has been, however, to disregard the close relationship between wages, total production costs, prices and profits and the result has been that climbing prices have defeated the very purposes of wage increases, and—unless some better way is found—there will be another wave of demands, strikes, settlements, wage boosts and price hikes—until the dizzy heights of disastrous inflation are reached—and then BANG!

Time To Start 'Looking Around'

WITH Christmas little more than a month ahead, distribution of holiday shopping and gift-buying through the intervening weeks seems wisest procedure, rather than that all of it be done now, or all of it deferred until the final few days—as some folks are inclined to do.

Merchandise suitable for Christmas gifts is already making a fine showing in Mansfield stores—with a greater abundance and variety of toys and playthings for children than for a number of years.

Advantage in doing a part of the Christmas shopping this early is that some items available in limited quantities may not be found later, so best procedure is to visit stores frequently, look through the various departments, and buy the things that seem suitable for gifts or that meet a home need.

Mansfield merchants are expecting the biggest holiday volume of business in history and are making every effort to present complete stocks. While some shortages will continue, the wide range of selection will probably surprise many people as they visit the progressive stores that invite their patronage through News-Journal advertising.

Argentina To Promote Industry

ARGENTINA, that country way down in the boot of South America, has set itself a five-year industrialization aim. The plan, now before the Argentine congress, drawn by President Juan Peron, calls for expenditures of $1,600,000,000 for industrial expansion, improvement and building of highways, airports, railroads, harbors. Immigrants, a quarter of a million, are to be encouraged, mostly German, Italian and Spanish, because they are the "most easily assimilable."

While Peron advertises the plan as aimed at more equitable distribution of wealth and a raised living standard, it nevertheless gives the president limitless power, according to Bernard Redmont, correspondent for World Report. Foreign capital joined to local funds is to be safeguarded, but priorities are to go to industries using native raw materials or producing for local needs and national defense.

People of the United States may well be interested watchers of what goes on in South America, particularly in Argentina, during the next few years.

Keeping the People Informed

IN ATLANTA, GA., largely, it is said, as a result of exposure by the Journal, five nursing homes for whites and some for Negroes, have been ordered closed by city officials. In a series of factual articles by a Journal reporter conditions in these homes were revealed as unsanitary and thoroughly undesirable.

Here is a vivid example of newspaper service to community well being. Along with reporting the news, the American press is a growing force for local progress and decency.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Lewis Once Paid Mine Operator To Close Mine To Punish Rivals

(Editor's Note—Today Drew Pearson gives another of his penetrating columns on the little-known background of John L. Lewis.)

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the amazing things about John L. Lewis is the coal miners' current loyalty despite Lewis' tyrannical rule and despite the fact that he has waged bitter, relentless war against mine groups which dared question his authority.

One case was his ouster of John L. Lawson, hero of the Colorado miners, as described in an earlier column.

More recent and much bloodier was Lewis' battle with the Progressive Mine Workers which ended with 21 Illinois miners killed, several hundred shot and thousands beaten.

Most significant revelation of all is the fact that Lewis on occasion has spent as much as $350,000 of miners' dues without their permission or advance knowledge to pay a coal operator to close down, thus forcing 500 miners out of work.

Lewis and the inner Mine Workers bureaucrats have complete control over the union's tremendous bankroll. They can buy office buildings in Washington, contribute $500,000 to a political campaign, put members of the Lewis family on the payroll, or pay a mine owner to close his mine, all without asking dues-paying miners what they think about it. All semblance of democracy inside the United Mine Workers long ago was thrown overboard.

Lewis' Rawest Deal.

Those who know Lewis consider his use of union dues to pay a mine owner to close down as about the rawest thing he has ever pulled.

The facts leaked out when the treasury department conducted an income tax probe of John L. Lewis and almost moved to indict him.

On May 12, 1937, the Mine B Coal company at Springfield, Ill., closed down and remained closed until November, 1939. During this time Lewis paid the mine operator, Ora Elshoff, around $350,000 as compensation to remain closed.

The reason Lewis wanted to close Mine B was to throw his hated rivals, the Progressive Miners, out of work. Around 500 miners had been employed by Elshoff and when the National Labor Relations Board held an election the vote was 404 to 25 against joining Lewis' union.

Following this overwhelming defeat, Lewis got Mine B to close, and the Progressive Miners found themselves out of jobs, that was their reward for voting against him.

The amazing fact that Lewis paid out more than a quarter of a million dollars of mine-workers' dues to close down a coal mine came to light when treasury inspectors noted the $350,000 payment to Elshoff in the Lewis-United Mine Workers' income tax statement. Lewis carefully covered himself by chalking this up as a "loan."

The treasury, however, did not view it in this light and was about to start an income tax prosecution when advisers warned that this would only make Lewis a martyr and that a jury probably would not convict. In the end, plans for prosecution were dropped.

How Lewis Won Supremacy.

This is only one page in one of the blackest chapters of ruthless Lewis warfare, with John L. virtually telling the justice department what to do. Scene of the battle was the Illinois coal fields, right in Lewis' own bailiwick.

Perhaps it was personal pride which made him determined to come out on top with the miners close to his home at Springfield. Perhaps also it was because these miners knew Lewis well that they fought him so bitterly.

The battle lasted the best part of a decade. It began in 1929 when John Walker was president of the Illinois Federation of Labor and Fay Fishwick was president of District 12 of the United Mine Workers. Illinois miners had been getting restless under Lewis' high-handed methods, so in retaliation he moved all District 12 officials about even the pretense of a trial. Appointing his own stooges, he sent them to take over Springfield headquarters under an armed guard.

Despite this, the duly elected district officials refused to step down. A bitter struggle followed, with the courts finally ruling that Lewis had no right to interfere in the affairs of District 12.

Finally, in 1932, Lewis negotiated a new contract with the Illinois coal operators. In those days, however, miners did not accept Lewis' dictation without question. They voted on their contracts and, in this case, they voted Lewis and his new contract down.

Lewis then ordered another ballot, and this time a set of ballots stored all night at the Ridgely Farmers State bank were taken out by two Lewis henchmen and destroyed. The henchmen alibied that they had been robbed.

Lewis Boots With Operators.

Though all evidence pointed to the fact that this second vote also was against the new contract, Lewis later that day declared an emergency and signed the contract on behalf of the miners. He then ordered the men back to work.

This was on Aug. 10, 1932. From that date until 1937, bloody warfare continued between Lewis and the miners who opposed him, the latter eventually becoming the Progressive Miners. It was during this prolonged battle that 21 of the anti-Lewis miners were killed.

The Progressive Miners retaliated as best they could, but Lewis had the advantage. He had just contributed half a million dollars to the re-election of Roosevelt in 1936.

So, in 1937, an FBI agent, George Stevens, came to Illinois and began collecting evidence against Lewis' miner rivals for conspiracy to interfere with interstate commerce and the U. S. mails.

The FBI agent was followed by a special prosecutor from the justice department, Welly K. Hopkins, who finally succeeded in sending 41 of the Progressive Miners to jail. This ended the battle. With the justice department behind him, Lewis had won an important victory. However, there are three aftermaths to the victory.

1. Welly Hopkins, the justice department lawyer, who sent Lewis' enemies to jail, later was given a juicy job as counsel to the United Mine Workers. Today he is advising Lewis on his injunction battle with Hopkins' former pals in the justice department.

2. In the 1937 trial it came out that, in 1932, Lewis apparently had been in cahoots with the Illinois coal operators; because they knew at 7:30 a. m. on Aug. 10 that the miners were going back to work that same day, even though the theft of ballots from the Ridgely Farmers State bank did not take place until 9:05 of that morning. It was that same day, after the ballot theft, that Lewis declared an emergency and signed the contract with the operators.

3. The final aftermath is that the justice department, which once sent 41 miners to jail at John L. Lewis' instigation, now finds itself threatening jail for the big miner boss it once befriended.

"Mom, Junior won't let me listen to him talking to his girl!"

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

"Don't Jail Lewis," Has Become Plea.

LIBRARY, Pa. — Please, Mr. President, try anything else—but don't pitch John L. Lewis in the pen.

Even rebellious members of his United Mine Workers who grudgingly left their jobs—and at least one of whom said the bushy-browed union boss "oughta rot in jail"—agree that such an act would precipitate the worst labor crisis in world history.

"That's what he's working for, and hoping for," snorted the blazing-eyed bartender whose broken fingers and still soot-shaded complexion testified to his many years underground.

"If they jail him, he becomes a martyr and everybody goes out on strike—all over the country. It won't matter whether they like Lewis or not they'll strike over the principle of the thing."

Three miners lining up against the bar agreed. One was an ex-GI who's only been back in the pits a few months.

"I hate Lewis," he barked. "I've never liked him and I never will. Sure I walked out with the rest, but that's because they agreed to—not because Lewis ordered it. I'm sticking with those guys, not with him. But you throw him in jail and probably it will make me mad, too."

All through this Pennsylvania coal country you hear the same story. Regardless of whether it's been said before, people might as well face the fact that John L. Lewis is not particularly popular even with the men he represents.

But, at the same time, until the bristling boss has been deposed, they will stick by him. At first, it's hard to understand their psychology.

A barber made no bones about his belief that "the miners don't want a strike now." He added:

"I've seen them plenty of times when they did want to, and the whole sentiment was different. This time they feel like they're being forced into it."

If there was one thing that demonstrated the difference between this and past walkout sentiment, it was in the idle miners' attitude towards outsiders, strangers and newspapermen. I covered coal strikes in the mid-thirties, when the appearance of a strange face brought a prompt and belligerent silence to any gatherings.

Because of that belligerence, this correspondent once got his features well-altered during such a strike.

Today, it's different. The men are friendly and perfectly willing to talk. They only ask that you don't use their names when they're talking against Lewis. And they only laugh when you ask them why.

The barber was one of many who claimed that the union boys no longer feel that they have any voice in general or national union policy.

"They vote in local elections, and they vote 'yah,' and that's about what it amounts to," he said. "They don't like it, but what can they do? They've got to stick together."

From all this foregoing comment, it shouldn't be deduced that the miners are not in accord about what action to take—or that they're turning against Lewis or the union in any direct way. The opposite is true. Their troubles are, they seem to feel, within their "own house" and that house still stands united against the outside—whether it be the companies or the government.

For that reason, such semi-spokesmen as the barber—himself an ex-miner—harped on the theory that jailing Lewis on the contempt charges would lead to unprecedented nationwide shutdowns by countless unions.

Even a company store manager who said he was all set to advance "the usual necessity credit" to idle mine families, said he hoped Lewis wasn't jailed.

"A lot of laborers are beginning to question him nowadays," he said, "but if they jail him, he'll be a hero overnight—and unions will go out everywhere."

Dave Boone Says:

A BIT of old New York passed with Jimmy Walker, a bit as genuine as the elevated railroad, Broadway, the subway, the after-dinner speech, the wisecrack and your own best memory of a mellower day.

* * *

He was Pa Knickerbocker in a smart business suit. He was Mr. Gotham in technicolor. And the people loved him for his human frailties.

* * *

Generous, broad-minded and kindly, he had the combined appeal of a homespun king, a popular public official, a merry minstrel and an intensely human being.

* * *

It pains me to read articles treating him as a mere buffoon and a playboy. Jimmy Walker had a fine mind and when he buckled down to any case few people could get to the facts faster or grasp them more clearly.

* * *

If he had taken himself more seriously at all times in his career there might have been no limits to how high he could have gone in American public life.

Dangerous Show of Irresponsibility.

WASHINGTON—Organized labor is walking right up to the loaded gun of the incoming congress, with what seems to be a deliberate and calculated desire to commit suicide.

It is not merely the John L. Lewis defiance of government, of contract, of everything. In a hundred and one ways, the reckless irresponsibility seems to grow rather than diminish.

Out in St. Louis the other day, 198 members of the AFL International Union of Operating Engineers walked off the job when the Union Electric Co. refused to penalize a member who was being disciplined by the local union. The company took the position that its contract with the union did not require it to lay off the recalcitrant member for 15 days, as the union had demanded.

Thereupon the operators walked out. For five hours the city's power was cut to a fraction of normal. Industrial machines were stopped, stores were closed. Newspapers ordinarily in sympathy with the objectives of unions denounced this wanton act which endangered the life of a busy metropolis.

Out on the West Coast, a relief ship for Alaska has been held up for three weeks while the union quibbled over what officers and engineers were to man it. The relief ship was vital to keep the ordinary functions of life continuing in our northern territory.

Through most of the summer and the fall, the West Coast shipping strike has held up all shipments to Alaska. That has meant an end to present plans for development of that region, with its rich potentialities. It has meant an end to the hopes of many former GI's who had looked to Alaska for a chance to do a little contemporary pioneering.

The way in which Lewis' feud with the government is shaping up suggests a pattern for the coming year that is full of danger. You cannot compel men to work either by a piece of paper with legal writing on it or by a gun.

If irresponsibility goes as far as defiance of the government of the United States, then we are in for a bad time.

A kind of law of diminishing returns is at work here. The more reckless labor is, the more harsh will be the legislation that congress passes. The more drastic the legislation, the more chance there is that it will be defied by labor.

What such defiance can mean is anybody's guess. It can mean violence of a sort and on a scale utterly alien to this country. The potentialities are so ominous that they should sober even the most headstrong and heedless elements in the labor movement. They should give pause to all but those who can profit from breakdown and chaos.

* * *

YOU CAN argue, of course, that Lewis is a very special case. It is hard to find any reason in his latest acts. One of his long-time admirers and associates recently expressed the opinion that Lewis is "sicker than some people think."

When the government signed a contract with the miners on May had long sought, such as the health and welfare fund, Lewis himself hailed it as one of the greatest achievements in union history. Now we find him denouncing government operation as a "farce."

There is, perhaps, a parallel here with the course of the dictators in the '30s. Time and again, Hitler got what he wanted. Yet it was never enough. As we learned to our everlasting sorrow, appeasement was of no avail.

Lewis seems to be asking for reprisals. He seems to want the cloak of martyrdom. Dealing with a man of his type is all but impossible. That is why the position of the government is so very difficult.

The coal crisis has a terrible irony. Lewis regards himself as a disciple of free enterprise and the American way of life. Yet if he had been hired directly by Stalin to undermine the capitalist system and the security of the western world, he would be doing just what he is doing. In Europe and the United States, production is so desperately needed—production and production and more production.

There is no better way to stop production than by a coal strike. Coal users, both private and industrial, are making every effort to change to other fuels. But coal is still the heart of industry. And John L. Lewis is proving once again that he can shut off the life blood of our system.

"Plot Thickens" In Scheme to Ignore Aiken.

WASHINGTON — It had not been the intention to run here a serial story on Senator George D. Aiken, the nature-loving philosopher from Vermont, and how the Republican elders have sought him out for chastisement because of his liberal views.

But the plot has thickened now with a scheme afoot not only to bar him from chairmanship of the senate labor committee in the new congress, but to keep him from being chairman of any committee. When Democrats do it, this is known as "the purge."

It is an interesting chapter in politics—not new—a sort of curtain raiser for the new Republican congress. It is something that Democrats can enjoy as they lick their wounds.

They recall how, when the shoe was on the other foot, they caught it heavy from Republicans for the Roosevelt "purges:" for Henry Wallace's more recent campaign for party discipline by punitive measures, and President Truman's "purge" of Rep. Slaughter of Missouri in this year's primary.

The Democratic target was "conservatives;" the Republican is "Liberals."

The hue and cry against the mild-mannered Senator Aiken became more frantic when Republican leaders here, mapping plans for the new congress, examined his record and found that he had voted 80 per cent against the Republican position as they interpreted it.

That was somewhat shocking.

They did not want the Vermont senator to be chairman of the labor committee — for which he would be in line if Senator Taft chose the chairmanship of finance as expected. They considered Senator Aiken too friendly to labor and recalled his hostility in the last congress to legislation that he considered too harsh, such as the Case Bill which President Truman vetoed.

But, pondering his entire record, some of the leaders came up sharp to see it was almost a Democratic record, better in fact than some southern Democrats. In that case, it was argued, he should not be entitled to any party post of influence.

Senator Aiken, who has served since 1940, has built up committee preference ratings under the seniority rule. Under the congressional reorganization bill passed in last congress, the number of senate committees has been reduced through mergers from 33 to 15. That gives the leaders a chance to reshuffle the posts.

The intention to sidetrack the Vermont senator was revealed with the announcement by Senator Taft of study committees for various problems selected by the Steering committee.

The committee to study labor legislation did not include Senator Aiken, despite his ranking position on the regular labor committee. This omission and that of Senator Morse of Oregon, also in the progressive wing of the party, attracted attention. Senator Morse since has been added.

Two years ago Senator Aiken carried Vermont almost two to one, which is a better record than that of any member of the Steering committee in his own state.

Farmer's Diary: "Humming Bird Moth."

I HEARD a humming bird sound about petunias in our porchbox at near dusk on a warm evening last week. A heavy humming bird moth hovered rapidly over one flower and then another, until she had visited all. I watched her fly across the highway and be lost among some jimpson weeds on the slope. The fact that this kind of moth should be still abroad so late in the season surprised me. Weeks past she has laid her eggs, and now that cold weather approaches, her time is short.

Some years ago I caught one of these creatures, and observed it carefully, first hand. I touched the long trunk with which it may reach into the throat of deep-petaled flowers, and unwound it like a tendril of wild grape. It seemed much longer than the larger wing spread was wide, wound beneath her head.

The various colors of its long and short wings blended beautifully. Small pairs of dots on each segment of the abdomen were like bright jewels in a cushion of black.

Most moths are light in weight. Upon a man's hand they can scarcely be felt—but the hummingbird or Sphinx moth is lumbering and heavy.

The larva is a familiar sight to the average gardener. It is the large green worm that matches so perfectly the stem of the tomato vine. Ravenously it devours all but the midribs of the plant and remains on the same plant until it has finished it. One telltale symptom reveals his whereabouts—the black round pellets upon the ground or litter beneath him.

The numerous legs cling tight to the underside of the leaf as though the feet were shod with vacuum cups. When discovered and suddenly touched with a finger, the bold blunt head and three fourth of the heavy body will rise upright as if to strike and remain motionless for several minutes. A sharp, wicked looking horn is attached on the rear. I have often touched this and found it merely a bluff . . . both useless and harmless.

The worm lives only on tomatoes—then in some mysterious way weaves a hard crusted cocoon about its flabby body and fits itself into a space only a little more than half its original size. Spading garden in the spring, I have often found these cocoons buried in the soil. They can be distinguished by their peculiar juglike shape—the long proboscis being housed, in the "handle".

Pseudo Pickle Puts Packers In Puzzlement

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The National Pickle Packers association today offered to present a pack of pickles that aren't really pickles to the persons who can pick a name for a new pickle that really isn't a pickle.

The pickle packers have had this "pickle" on their hands for a year and don't know what to call it.

To the housewife who can name "it" will go two cases of—well, whatever she names them.

Col. E. T. Miller, association secretary, said "it looks like a pickle; it even tastes a little like one. But technically, it isn't."

Miller said the new product isn't a pickle because it isn't cured for months in salt brine. Instead, it's packed in bottles, pasteurized and ready to be eaten in a few hours.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

The proprietor of a dry-goods emporium left the store, with some misgivings, in the hands of a new clerk while he went out for a bite of lunch and a stogie.

When he came back, the clerk proudly announced that he had sold a coolie coat in his absence. The pleased proprietor opened the drawer of the cash register, and then let out a wild cry of anguish. "Ninety-eight cents!" he screamed. "You didn't sell that gorgeous coolie coat for ninety-eight cents?"

"Did I do wrong?" said the clerk. "I looked first at the tag."

"It was ninety-eight dollars," groaned the boss, "not ninety-eight cents."

However, his lunch had been good, and he soon relented. "Let this be a lesson to you," he told the clerk. "And don't feel too bad about it. We made fifteen cents profit anyhow."

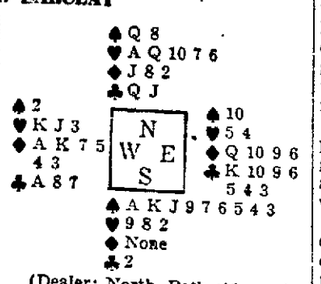
Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

ONE OF the favorite devices of tricky veterans, which sometimes brings a rich dividend in extra points, is canny use of delaying tactics. Waiting for someone else to open the bidding, and then hopping into it with some kind of a high call, when holding a single tremendous suit, gives the opponents a great temptation to double when they haven't a chance in the world to beat the contract.

That 5-Spade bid by South was personally resented by West, in the tournament where this deal developed, but he was afraid to do anything about it, for he rated his opponent as a canny competitor. When North, however, took it to small slam, that was just too much for West, too complete an insult to his original bid,



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
1 ♥	2 ♣	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl

West made the expected lead of his diamond K, which South ruffed. Six spade tricks followed, then the 9 of hearts was led and the 10 finessed. The diamond 8 was ruffed and the heart 8 led, the J being taken by the Q and the A then felling the K. The heart 7 furnished a discard of the club 2, and the 6 would have been good for the last trick except that South had a spade, so could not help ruffing it.

Thus a pair of players who had passed on the first round made a grand slam, which was doubled at the level of small slam, for a while of a top score.

South, after his first pass, was confident West would open, and expected to bid modestly when the calling came to him again, to try to lure a double. But North's bid of hearts—the only side suite in which some strength could be of any appreciable value to him—made him feel certain that no more than two tricks would be lost. North's spake Q was his reason for raising to the slam, South having shown expectation of taking 11 tricks without it.

Do Your Christmas Mailing EARLY

It Will Help Us to Provide the Prompt, Efficient Service That Is the Aim of Each Employee of the Post Office

Each year as Christmas draws near the unusually large volume of mail and parcel post to be handled taxes all postal facilities to the utmost. With a view to helping your post office to render the best possible service during this rush period, the following suggestions are brought to the attention of the public, through the courtesy of the Mansfield News-Journal. Observance of the instructions given here will greatly facilitate the speedy and accurate handling of your mail. Your cooperation will help us give you efficient, satisfactory service, and aid immeasurably in the prompt delivery of your greetings and gifts. The personnel of the Mansfield post office wish to thank the public for their whole-hearted cooperation during the past year . . . and to extend to all best wishes for a happy holiday season.

Use Air Mail When Hours Count

When time is short, air mail service offers the fastest mail service, and at extremely low rates. Air mail is received first, opened first, answered first. The rate is 5 cents per ounce anywhere in the United States, U. S. Possessions, Canada and Mexico.

Air Mail Special Delivery

Speedy air mail service is further accelerated by special delivery, insuring immediate delivery at destination upon arrival. The special delivery fee is 13 cents in addition to regular air mail letter rate.

PACKING and WRAPPING

Pack articles carefully, in strong, durable containers. Wrap parcels securely . . . but do not seal them unless they bear printed labels reading: "Contents, merchandise—Postmaster: This parcel may be opened for postal inspection if necessary", together with name and address of sender. Sealed parcels not so labeled are subject to the letter rate. Enclosure of written matter other than card bearing names of sender and addressee is not permitted.

ADDRESSING PACKAGES

Address all mail plainly and completely in ink, giving street address, or box or rural route number, if possible. Place sender's return card in upper left hand corner of address side. Tags should not be used unless absolutely necessary, in which case a copy of the address and return card should be placed inside parcel for identification, if tag is lost.

Special Delivery Service

Prepayment of the following fees on first, second, third or fourth class mail entitles it to special delivery, immediately, at the office of address. This is in addition to the regular postage.

	First Class (Cents)	Second, Third, Fourth Class
Up to 2 Pounds	13	17
Over 2 Pounds, Up to 10	20	25
Over 10 Pounds	25	35

POSTAL INSURANCE

Valuable parcels should be insured. The fees are: Up to $5.00, 3 cents; $5.01 to $25.00, 10 cents; $25.01 to $50.00, 15 cents; $50.01 to $200.00, 25 cents.

The Observance of the Following Will Assure Better Service During the Christmas Rush

Anticipate Your Regular Stamp Requirements for the Christmas Reason, and Purchase Them In Advance to Avoid the Crowds

Late Mailings Should Be Sent Special Delivery . . . to Assure Their Immediate Delivery Upon Arrival at Destination

Separate your "CITY" and "OUTGOING" mail and place it in proper slots provided at post office. When bundles of "City" or Outgoing" are brought to post office they should be handed through window in bundles, rather than put through slots a few at a time. A postal employe will be stationed at mailing windows during the Christmas rush.

Winchell — On Broadway

JUST BEFORE Jimmy Walker was elected Mayor of New York (in 1925) this column started its career on the N. Y. Graphic (Sept. 15, 1924).

At a dinner (in the back room of the Tavern, on West 48th St.), attended by a group of over 70 well known newspaper and theatrical folk, Walker intoned: "I have just learned that you are also to be the dramatic critic. I don't know what to predict, except to warn you that you can be a great big success and lose all these friends—or keep them and become a great big flop!"

Once, when a scribe offended him, His Honor said: "I know better than to fight with newspapermen. They go to press too often."

In his sunset years although he lived a full life) he found himself buried on the extreme end of a dais in Hollywood. The event was a testimonial affair to a radio actor. When the alleged comedians were flopping all over the place, they called on Jimmy to pep things up, knowing how good he is at it.

He got up, a little heavy from wine, and, motioning away the blinding spotlight, he grimly said: "Please take away that light. I want to be able to see some of the people—who haven't been able to 'see' me!"

Oh, a long time ago, when the B'way gullibles believed everything they heard or read, one wild rumor had me "on the spot."

Kidding about it, I asked Walker if he would come to my funeral.

"What?" he howled. "And get killed in the crush?"

Add Quotation Marksmanship: Geoffrey Parsons' tribute to editor Henry Wallace at a luncheon: "I ask you to drink with me to the greatest southpaw of them all."

The literary section of a New York gazette comes up with a bit of huckstering: A radio sponsor was discussing a project for dramatizing famous books in transcription form. "Can you get 'Treasure Island' on a 13-minute record?" asked the sponsor.

The scribe replied: "With or without a middle commercial?"

At the Duet a group were discussing the home life. "Say," said one, "let's get our wives together tonight and have a good time."

"Fine," said another, "where'll we send them?"

"Are editors so rough on us because we're so young?"

"Nope," chuckled the desk man, "because they're so old."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Federal Judge John C. Knox, of New York, a Wilson Democrat who stepped out of his judicial character to oppose the Roosevelt scheme to pack the federal courts, has sketched a plan for a system of labor courts to sit in union disputes, superseding the labor relations board set up by the Wagner act.

Judge Knox tried George Browne and Willie Bioff, two of the more notorious vermin of the A. F. of L., and has had other experience in union cases. His mail, elicited by his vigorous language in criticism of the Roosevelt system of unionism, like my own correspondence, has included many pathetic letters from workers and their wives who have suffered from the Bossism of the sordid professional unioneer.

He has found it necessay to say explicitly, "I earnestly desire that unions should thrive and I should resent any suggestion that I wish to bring about their destruction." Those have been my own sentiments throughout ten years of campaigning against corruption and wanton oppression of individuals and the public, but I seldom have taken occasion to say so. It has always seemed to me that my motives, good or bad, were no legitimate part of the controversy. Even if I were entirely and implacably anti-union or even anti-labor, the facts of the case would still stand by themselves.

Inasmuch as a number of other federal judges, members of a bench which is still generally regarded as our most judicial, most intelligent and least political, have written to encourage Judge Knox in his proposal of a labor court, and a bill is being written for consideration by congress, I believe his plan should be presented to a wider public than he has been able to reach thus far.

HE PROPOSES an absolutely new federal court to consist of a chief judge, sitting in Washington, and eleven associate judges. The court would consist of three divisions, eastern, central and western, sitting in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Washington, with three judges permanently assigned to each division, and the other two resident in Washington but roving by assignment of the chief judge.

Employers and unions falling into controversy would petition the court in the regular American way, the chief judge would determine the prima facie sufficiency of the petition and the merits would then be heard by three judges.

The plan proceeds: No settlement decree shall be inconsistent with any law of the United States which regulates maximum hours or minimum rates of pay. No decree shall require that an employee be, or remain, a union member. No checkoff of dues, assessments or fines shall be made by the employer. No employer shall be required to pay an employee any monies other than as wages. (This strikes at the sales tax now imposed on commerce by unions and at standby or blackmail pay, now routine orders on commerce and the courts.) No decree shall preclude a fair profit to the employer nor shall the court ever hold that an employee is entitled to a share in the employer's profits, but the court shall take into account the employer's past, present and future profits and give consideration to the adequacy of existing living standards."

I don't pretend to reconcile a seeming ambiguity here, but Judge Knox says this is a mere sketch of his plan and is willing to submit it to debate and yield points. If necessary, so that labor and management can be treated fairly and the country relieved "of the travail of civil war."

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The ancient District of Columbia courthouse is far off the beaten path of tourists. Only people in trouble go there, along with visiting architects, who regard it as perhaps the most serenely beautiful of all government buildings.

On a pedestal in front of the Grecian portico stands a statue of Abraham Lincoln, wearing white marble coat tails and the hint of a smile. The likeness is an excellent one. It is easy to imagine that this is the way Lincoln looked when he mentioned government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

So you walk by the statue, through the courthouse and into an ultramodern annex done in the Herbt Hoover School of Architecture, with green marble trimmings and bronze elevator doors. You ride to the third floor.

Here is a bald-headed judge doing his dead-levelest to prove in the midst of perhaps the most serious coal strike yet that Lincoln was right and that this is not a government of, by and for John L. Lewis. Justice T. Alan Goldsborough until yesterday was a jurist worrying principally about the trivial disputes of the people; today, right or wrong, he goes down in the history books.

With more than 100 other reporters I spent the day in and out of his courtroom, waiting for him to decide what to do with the union chief, who had flouted his injunction against the strike, who hadn't even bothered to say how-de-do.

The photographers waited outside to snap pictures of the justice department lawyers, who presented the contempt citations to Justice Goldsborough. So many citizens crowded around the photographers, that three special cops had to direct traffic.

Upstairs in his walnut-paneled courtroom with the artificial lighting and the church-pew benches, the judge went about his work-a-day tasks. He decided disputed doctors' bills, taxicab accident cases, divorce and breaches of contract.

* * *

THE REPORTERS filling the jury box thought they detected an anxious feeling about the judge, as though he wished the attorney general would hurry his paper work. Maybe.

One of these involved a Negro man, who left his wife without benefit of divorce, went through a marriage ceremony with another woman and became the father of her seven children.

Now he was dead and the question before the judge was whether his widow, or the mother of his children should administer his $400 estate. Justice Goldsborough leaned back in his red-leather chair with his left hand at his cheek and seemed to me that he gave this problem his whole attention.

At noon his docket was cleared. He went to lunch. Forty-five minutes later he returned to his chambers and then began one of those weird afternoons you read about. Alarms and rumors kept the reporters racing through the corridors. Little men who didn't-know-nothing-about-nothing kept popping into the judge's office.

The bailiff in his red necktie emerged at intervals to crack what he thought were jokes. His assistant searched the premises for cameras. The justice department men stalked in. An hour and a half later the judge signed the fateful paper. Contempt charges against Eyebrows Lewis. The sun was setting.

I swear it was the peculiar angle of the light on the statue rather than any intention of mine to bring this dispatch to a phoney climax, but Lincoln's lips were curved into one of the chiefest smiles I ever saw.

WORKERS WILL SUPPORT LEWIS, SPEAKER SAYS

National Strike Predicted If Mine Leader's Jailed.

A nation-wide strike of labor will follow if John L. Lewis is imprisoned for violating the government's contempt order, Arthur W. Binns, Philadelphia, president of the National Home and Property Owners Foundation, predicted yesterday in a talk in Mansfield.

Binns addressed more than 200 members of service and veterans' groups, and representatives of business and industry at a dinner meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. He spoke under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis club.

"If the government puts John L. Lewis in jail I feel certain that labor, both CIO and AFL will join in a national strike," he said.

"The government could not possibly have moved in a worse fashion than it has. By taking over the mines the U. S. becomes a competitor in the struggle. If the government forbids the men to strike Lewis will be enthroned as the champion of the workers."

Warning against a general tendency of conservatives to "let down now that the Republicans have won the election," Binns said, "only those blind to events feel that the Republican gains have stopped the left-wing movement. I have no confidence that a change in parties will automatically solve the problems that face us."

Raps Sen. Taft.

Binns then attacked Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio who "as a conservative Republican and advocate of sound fiscal policies, announces that he will reintroduce into congress the Wagner-Ellender-Taft public housing bill which will add 10 billion dollars more to social legislation costs.

"Taft, thought to be opposed to greater bureaucracy, now proposes one greater than at any time," Binns charged.

"This measure is referred to as a veterans' housing bill," Binns continued. "It is a fraud! What a detestable trick to play politics with the veteran.

ARTHUR W. BINNS

"It is referred to as a private housing measure. It's fraud," he exclaimed." It is to be 80 per cent public housing, 100 per cent subsidized, and 85 to 90 per cent tax-exempt with the bill falling upon private home owners."

"This is a system of building up rent serfs, living as wards of the state while the 30,000,000 home and property owners and taxpayers—the stockholders of the nation—foot the bill.

"It now rests in our hands to prove that the present system which we believe in, freedom of enterprise and of private ownership, is better than the encroaching communistic philosophy of state intervention." Binns continued.

"This must be done by assuring a good home for every American family and by action to rebuild our slums and blighted areas. We must prove that the common man is sovereign and the state the servant; that men support the state, not the state the men.

"If ever there was a time in our history when we should feel a sense of responsibility it is now. This is not the time to stop—it is the time to start.

"The beachhead of our attack is at the level of the 30,000,000 property owners who believe, regardless of political affiliation, that private ownership opens the way for maintenance of free institutions and government. If we win this fight we win the whole battle."

W. C. Mansfield, program chairman, introduced Binns.

4-Fs Now Eligible To Enlist In Army

Some men who were classified as 4-F by their selective service boards may now enlist in the army, it was pointed out today by M/Sgt. Daniel DeSalvo of the Mansfield army recruiting station.

During the draft holiday which is now in effect the war department has ruled that men classified as 4-F by their local draft boards may apply for enlistment, DeSalvo said. They will be examined by army doctors, and if they pass, will be taken in the service regardless of their former classification.

MANSFIELDER GETS NAVAL AIR MEDAL

Lt. (j.g.) Howard J. Fischer, USNR, son of Mrs. Lena Fischer, 239 Sheridan avenue, has been awarded the Air Medal by Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, it was announced today by officers at the Great Lakes training center.

Lt. Fischer earned the award for participation in five combat missions in the foward areas of the Western Pacific. Text of the citation is as follows:

"For meritorious achievement in aerial flight during operations against enemy Japanese forces in the forward areas of the Western Pacific from March 29 to April 13, 1945. Participating in five combat missions during this period, Lt. Fischer contributed materially to the success of his squadron. His gallant devotion to duty was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service."

Richland Auto Club To Elect Tonight

Election of officers and nine directors will highlight the 27th annual meeting of the Richland County Automobile club, at 7:30 p. m. today in the club's office at 56 North Mulberry street.

Present officers of the club are Carl Stander, president; Harry Sotzen, first vice president; Carlton F. Fernyak, second vice president, John Pierce, treasurer, and Jack Berger, secretary.

Girl, 14, Sought By Ashland Police

ASHLAND—Ashland police are conducting a search for 14-year-old Blanche Joanne Huffman, 14, missing from her home here since Tuesday night when she was reported seen buying a bus ticket to Grayson, Ky.

The girl was described to police as five feet six inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, with brown hair, hazel eyes and fair complexion. When last seen she was wearing a black coat and carrying a gray suitcase.

Amvets Pay Tribute to War Dead at Color Presentation

In simple but reverent ceremonies, Mansfield Amvets last night paid tribute to comrades who gave their lives in World War II and honored the parents of one of their number.

During formal presentation of the post's colors, honor was paid to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Spreng, parents of Lt. Robert P. Spreng, first Mansfielder to give his life in World War II, in whose memory and honor the Robert P. Spreng Post No. 26, Amvets is named.

Approximately 150 persons assembled in the VFW meeting hall in the Memorial building when Amvet Post Commander Robert E. Rogers opened the ceremonies with a short talk, dedicating the post as "a perpetual memory to our comrades who died in national service."

Rogers introduced D. A. McCullough, commander of the McVey post, American Legion, who formally presented the colors, borne by a Legion color guard, to the Amvet color guard.

McCullough said, "I dedicate these colors to the purpose of your post, community, state and nation, and your post to the faithful service of our nation, our people, and our flag."

After posting of the colors Amvet Louis G. Doerr read a resolution honoring Robert P. Spreng which was unanimously adopted by the post. A copy was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Spreng.

Spreng spoke with deep emotion as he acknowledged the tribute. "Mrs. Spreng and I feel very much honored in your naming this post after our son, Robert," he said. "We only hope that in some way in the future we will be able to reciprocate this fine honor."

Color bearers for the Legion were F. Thane Shaw, and H. L. Everly. Bob Geary and Frank Newton received the colors for the Amvets.

'Y' Campaign Reports Due

Final reports on Mansfield's annual YMCA membership drive will be given at a meeting of the membership committee today at 5 p. m., at the "Y" Richard Tucker, committee chairman, said.

Only 115 short of its goal of 450 members as of noon yesterday, Tucker said that he anticipated success by the deadline tonight. Should the goal not be reached Tucker said the drive would be continued.

Reporting for their respective divisions will be Robert Horn and Myron Miller, heading the uptown division, Franklin Lay and Vernon Smeltzer, the large industries division; Charles Green and Robert Ross, small industries and business, and Harold Mansfield, schools.

Heads Class At Appleseed

By JOAN GILBERT AND JACQUELINE FISHER

Duane Getz has been chosen as president of the ninth grade class at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. Others chosen were James Anderson, vice president; Marilyn Graham, secretary, and Joan Gilbert, treasurer.

Volleyball intramural games, which were played off this week by the seventh and eighth grade girls, resulted in a victory for Miss Elaine Grahl's room, 106, over Miss Bernice Henry's room, 102. J. J. Thom's room, 111, was defeated by Mrs. Irwin Brune's room, 208.

LODGE TO INSTALL OFFICERS TONIGHT

Frank H. Marquis Lodge No. 690, F. & A. M., will hold installation of officers at 7:30 p. m. today at the Masonic temple, Arliss F. Porter, secretary, announced today.

Names of officers installed at a ceremony Wednesday night of the Mansfield Lodge No. 35, F. & A. M., were announced yesterday by Porter.

Glen L. Robinson was installed as worshipful master; Walton O. Leedy, senior warden; Eugene B. Boling, junior warden; E. Corson Brower, treasurer, and A. F. Porter, secretary. Robert N. Campbell, district deputy grand master, acted as presiding officer.

Rank Retention Limited to Jan. 1

Retention of certain rank privileges by ex-Marine officers and enlisted men who desire to reenlist is only protected until Jan. 1, 1947, Sgt. Charles Biggs, of the Mansfield Marine recruiting station said today.

Latest information from Washington, Biggs said, is that effective Jan. 1, 1947, private first class is the highest rating under which a man who has been separated from the service for more than 30 days may re-enlist.

O'NEIL STORE TO OPEN EARLY IN DECEMBER

Downtown District to Present Changed Appearance Within a Few Months.

With the announcement today that O'Neil's, Mansfield's new department store at Third and Main streets, will open during the first week in December, the city thus completes another step in its major "face-lifting" program.

The modernization job has been going on for months. Work on at least one project started more than a year ago, while others began just a few weeks ago.

Jack Miller, manager of the O'Neil company, said the formal opening of the new department store in the remodeled Mohican building will be held either Dec. 2 or 6.

The two-story building on Third street between Main and Walnut streets has been completely modernized. Another floor has been added to the building by conversion of the basement into a "merchandizing" floor.

The store also has taken over the second floor of Neisner's, located immediately north of the Mohican building. This space will be used for lounges, rest rooms and a furniture department, Miller said.

* * *

Equipment Ready.

He said all equipment and fixtures are in storage here, and as soon as the floors are finished, the fixtures will be installed.

Something new will be added to Mansfield's skyline upon completion of the huge new Sears-Roebuck store on the north side of the square.

W. J. Toole, manager of the store, said it is expected to be ready for occupany by spring. He said it will feature the best of the new equipment tried out in other company stores for the past 60 days.

"Recently, all the lay-out men of the company were called to Chicago to discuss new fixtures we have been trying in our stores," he said. "The best of these will be selected for the new Mansfield store."

A third "face-lifting" now in progress is that of the R. B. Maxwell company. It is building a new entrance and has removed an unsightly third floor and expanded its interior floor space.

One of the old-timers receiving a new face is the Mansfield Building and Loan association, 36 North Main street. Known familiarly as "Old 1876," the firm is replacing the old-fashioned front with plate glass windows, terra cotta trim and an impressive bronze door. Even the "Old 1876" trademark will be modernized in new-style lettering.

The Martin Hardware company also is replacing its old facade. Staggered plate glass windows and stainless steel frames will improve the store front. Inside, new fixtures, counters and blocked wall covering will streamline the store, according to Jay Seymour, who has charge of the remodeling job.

An addition at the Art Rattan company, 167 Park avenue east, has been delayed by shortages, but the building, started more than a year ago, is expected to be completed during the winter.

* * *

More Floor Space.

The addition will provide 20,000 square feet of floor space for new offices and manufacturing, Ray O. Young, an official of the company, said.

Another project which is expected to be completed this winter—perhaps by January—is the Swan Cleaners building.

"We expect to move in by January," Gordon Swan, owner, said. "We've been pretty lucky with materials. Mostly, I think, because we used materials not used in home building."

The establishment is constructed of cement blocks and steel, with a porecelain enamel front in ivory and maroon.

Something new will be added to Park avenue west when the Kroger super-market, near the Ohio theater, is completed early next year.

Harry Lemley, of Lemley and Welsh contractors, who are constructing the building, said he expected the project to be completed by Jan. 15.

The building will provide 18,000 square feet of floor space. Krogers will occupy the entire first floor, and the expanding Veterans' Administration will take over the second floor.

Woolworth's new building adjacent to Sears Roebuck's present store on North Park street is yet another facet to be added to expanding Mansfield.

The Yellow Stripe Cab company, having acquired a few new taxis, now has "spruced up" it quarters, and has completed remodeling of the building next to the old Majestic theater which collapsed.

The office and lounge has a floor space of 2.000 square feet, and a rest room with blocked cork walls.

Record of seven wins, one lost and two ties was the second best turned in by the Tygers during Paul Snyder's seven-year reign as Bengal chieftain. . . . His 1941 club copped eight and tied two. . . . The 1939 eleven also won seven but dropped three. . . . Snyder-coached Mansfield teams have won 45, lost 26, and tied five. . . . In that period they have scored 1,326 points to 872 for the opposition. . . . This season they rolled to 222 points and permitted 111. . . . Jimmy Lymper, backfield mentor, saw his ball-toting brigade scoot to 2,318 yards on the ground. . . . The Tygers added 616 in the air. . . . Bengal oponents made only a total of 1,411 yards, passing and running. . . . Ralph Majors, hard-driving right half, picked up 1,329 total yards himself by rushing, passing and pass receiving. . . . The Snyder-coached line permitted the Martins Ferry backs a net of only 10 yards in 19 tries from tackle to tackle. . . . Altogether the Ferry attack compiled only 31 yards in 27 attempts. . . . The Bengals have allowed but 455 yards on 199 trips, an average of 2.28 while outside the tackles the mark is 605 yards on 146 carries, an average of 4.14. . . . Orchids to those inside defenders, Dave Boals, Dave Richards, Ray Beard and Dick Gross, and linebackers, Bob Rondy and Dave Wentz. . . . Bill Van Horne, Martins Ferry Times-Leader sports editor, called the Mansfield attack the slickest razzle-dazzle that he had seen on a high school field in years. . . . Snyder said, "We really had it last Friday."

Cleckner and DeYarmon Join Bowling '600' Club

Dale Cleckner, Lions club, and John DeYarmon, Rogers, joined the Commercial B league "600" club at the Colony alleys last night. Cleckner had 191-208-203—612 and DeYarmon, 199-205-200—604.

Individual high honors went to John Frisch, Lions club, with a 238 while Oak Park tavern copped team laurels with 937-892-902—2731. Ringside had a 962 for high team game.

Renew Rivalry

ORLANDO, Fla —(AP)—With both squads virtually at full strength, Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops and the Rollins College Tars will meet here tonight in the third game of a rivalry dating back to 1937.

Dizzy Grid Campaign Nears End

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—Champions of the Big Nine and Pacific Coast conferences, who will meet in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day, will be crowned tomorrow as the dizziest and most lucrative college football season of them all moves within sight of the finish line.

Title races which have been in doubt since the opening practice day will be partially or completely settled in several other leagues and many teams will call it quits for the year.

Others, like Army, Navy, Georgia and Georgia Tech, will be resting or playing breathers in preparation for important windups next week.

But all of the chips in the game will be down at Los Angeles and at Evanston, Ill., with Columbus, O., claiming more than casual interest in the proceedings.

Well over 100,000 persons are expected to jam the Los Angeles coliseum to watch all-victorious UCLA battle it out with Southern California for top honors on the Pacific coast.

A victory for the Bruins would give them the conference championship with no strings attached and automatically send them into the Tournament of Roses classic at Pasadena on Jan. 1. If Southern Cal, a seven-point underdog, should come through, however, the two would share the title and a vote of conference members would be needed to name the Rose Bowl host.

Illinois, meanwhile, will stake its claim for a Big Nine title on a victory over a Northwestern team that is still reeling from its battering by Notre Dame, with a sellout crowd of 47,000 in prospect at Evanston.

If the Illini should falter, Michigan could grab the Big Nine and Rose Bowl honors by beating Ohio State at Columbus.

Indiana will be at Purdue and Minnesota at Wisconsin for other Western conference finales.

Tennessee, tied with all-victorious Georgia for the Southeastern conference lead, entertains Kentucky in an important league tussle with Mississippi State invading Mississippi and Tulane playing host to Notret Dame in an intersectional game.

Georgia, whose hopes for a share of the Southeastern crown and a bid to the Sugar Bowl rest on next week's struggle with Georgia Tech, will be at Chattanooga while Tech entertains Furman.

Duke and North Carolina, both still in the running for the Southern conference title, clash at Chapel Hill.

Yale and Harvard renew their ancient rivalry at Cambridge, Mass., with the Crimson needing a victory to sew up the Ivy league flag.

Syracuse goes to Columbia and Dartmouth to Princeton for other Ivy league bouts and Alabama will be Boston College's second straight intersectional opponent from the South. Other eastern highlights will find Holy Cross at Temple, Penn State at Pittsburgh, Bucknell at Rutgers and Muhlenberg at Delaware.

Texas Christian and Rice, the two teams which knocked favored Texas out of the running in the Southwest conference, collide at Houston, Tex., and a Rice triumph would enable the Owls to share the title with Arkansas, which will be idle while awaiting its Thursday windup with Tulsa.

Nebraska will be at Oklahoma, with the winner clinching a tie for the Big Six crown, although the co-champion won't be tertermined until Thanksgiving day when Kansas and Missouri get together.

ATTRACTIVE KEGLER—Marilyn Beattie, Mansfield Senior hi[gh], is one of the students learning the rudiments of bowling at the Colony lanes. Marilyn is strictly a beginner at the fine art of pin-busting. Fourteen five-girl teams are competing in Tygerette league competition each Thursday at the Colony.

They're Talking About Winning Michigan Game for the Saint

By JOHN G. DIETRICH

COLUMBUS—(UP)—It would be nice if Ohio State could win this one for Saint.

That was the phrase heard more than any other today in this football-conscious town in connection with tomorrow's Ohio State-Michigan battle, the 43rd in a tradition-steeped series.

It will be the last football game as athletic director for L. W. St. John, retiring next year after one-third of a century at the head of Ohio State's athletic department.

St. John has not always been a popular figure in the state or on campus. On his shoulders has fallen much of the blame when things athletic have not gone well at Ohio State. He has been a convenient whipping-boy on whom disappointed rooters could take out their vengeance.

He has not always been right, especially in the field of public relations. But as director he always has stood like a rock for the policies he thought were best for Ohio State athletics, right or wrong. Sometimes it seemed almost sheer stubbornness, but in the long run it won the respect of his friends and many of his foes.

"Saint" would not be the type to arouse a flaming desire to "win one for the old man, gang," in the approved tradition, but nearly everybody concerned would like to see it happen.

For Ohioans, the Michigan game has long had an emotional quality untouched by any other rivalry. Probably it stemmed from the old days, when haughty Michigan's point-a-minute teams annually massacred the Buckeyes from "the college in a cornfield."

It was in that turn-of-the-century era that Michigan piled up much of its 27 to 12 advantage in the series. Since the Wolverines re-entered the Western conference in 1918, it has been 15 to 12, with one tie in 1941.

No jugs, wooden turtles or oaken buckets change hands after Ohio State-Michigan games. Such gimmicks have been unnecessary fuel on the flames of a burning rivalry.

Crawford County Basketball League Opens Play, Dec. 6th

TIRO—Crawford county basketball league opens its 1946-47 season Friday, Dec. 6, with Whetstone high school meeting Tiro in the local opener.

In other loop inaugurals, Lyl[e] Ikens plays at New Washington, Mt. Zion goes to Leesville, North Robinson travels to Chatfield and Holmes-Liberty plays at Sulphur Springs.

Injured Thumb Erases Turk

An injured thumb brought a sudden end to last night's wrestling headliner at the Mansfield Armory.

Ali Pasha, the Turk of "sleeper hold" fame, had his digit banged up against a ring post and it proved just what Fred Crone, Boston ruffian, needed to take home the bacon. Crone notched the first fall in 20 minutes and took the second in two minutes, 25 seconds when pain forced Pasha to withdraw.

Rugged Jack Smithers and Texas Ken Mayne had quite a brawl in the opener. Smithers copped the first fall with a crab-hold in 20 minutes and Mayne evened the count in six minutes with a body press. Mayne copped the bout in nine minutes with a leg-strangle and roll.

Promoter Earl Myers had designated last night's show as "Shelby Night."

Cleveland Barons Entertain St. Louis Flyers Tomorrow

Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Indianapolis, all idle today, renew their battle for the lead in the Western Division of the American Hockey league tomorrow night.

The Barons, tied with Pittsburgh for first, tangle with the St. Louis Flyers at the Cleveland arena.

Reserve Seat Ducats Available For Fights

Reserve seats for the VFW charity boxing show at the Armory on Nov. 27 are on sale at City News, Stone's Grill, Park Avenue News, Saprano cigar store, Dick Jones club, Ritz Nite club and VFW post.

General admission seats will go on sale the night of the fight. Mansfielders Paul Carbetta, Dick Alexander and Joe Brown are slated for action in the three eight-round battles.

There were 200 spectators at the initial contest between Notre Dame and Northwestern in 1889. It was also the only game played by the Irish that season.

Jim Demaret Paces Druid Hills Golf

ATLANTA —(AP)—A five-under par 67 put Jimmy Demaret two strokes ahead today as the touring professionels came up to the second round of the $12,000 Druid Hills Invitational Golf tournament.

Demaret, Houston pro who has missed several tournaments, went out in two-under-par 34 and came home with a three-under 33 over the 6,575-yard course in the opening round. Nearest him were Lou Worsham of Washington, D. C. and Tommy Bolt, of Shreveport, La., each with 69's.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK—Nick Mistovich, 139, Youngstown O. won by decision from Jimmy Schiaffo, 134, New York (4).

Court Workouts Begin at Madison High School

RAM QUINTET COLLIDES WITH MT. VERNON DEC. 3

Thirty-eight cage hopefuls answered the first practice call for the Mansfield Madison 1946-47 basketball squad this week.

Coach Jeff DeHaven has had the football player augmented group working out after school this week in preparation for the season's opener Tuesday, Dec. 3, at Mt. Vernon. Last season, the Rams had difficulty hitting the hoop and dropped a 31-9 decision to the Mounts.

After going down to defeat in the initial 1945-46 clash, DeHaven's basketeers bounced back to win 12 of 16 regular season battles. The Rams were eliminated in the first round of tournament play by a strong Sandusky quintet, 42-23.

First home game of the attractive 15-game schedule is slated for Friday, Dec. 6, when the Shelby Whippets invade the Ram gymnasium. Reserve encounters will precede all Madison home and road encounters.

Two lettermen—Dick Ernsberger and Herb Eldridge—are back off last year's team. Eldridge notched four of the nine points against Mt. Vernon. Both are juniors and Ernsberger was placed on the all-Northeastern Buckeye league grid eleven. Eldridge made the second team.

Only two seniors are on DeHaven's squad presaging good basketball at Madison for the next couple of years. The seniors are Wayne Strang and Dick Glenn.

Juniors trying for places on the varsity and reserve squads are: Ernsberger, Eldridge, Eugene Malott, Robert Wilson, Dick Poth, Eldon Pritchard, Alex Bosko, Ed Thomas, Glen Berry and Don Bish.

Sophomores: Howard Sprague, James McMillin, James Brightbill, James Gatton, Eugene Riblet, James Guthrie, Ronald Roll, Raymond Bader, Jack Bosh, Hale Hout, Melvin Grimm, Fred Durig and George Weimer.

Freshmen: Roland Constance, Robert McLaughlin, Norman Hughes, Cloran Chronister, Dick Erdenberger, Lloyd Risler, John Snyder, Bruce Armstrong, Russell Glenn, Billy Remy, Kenneth Rice, Dave Davies and Roger Beer.

They'll Get Army Football Team or Know Reason Why

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— The City of Angels, still seething with indignation over the coast Conference—Big Nine closed shop on the Rose Bowl excluding Army, appeared determined today to bring the Cadets out here, one way or another.

The city council yesterday invited Army and Notre Dame to play a rematch of their recent scoreless game, and Councilman Harold Harby said both institutions seemed receptive to the bid, with an answer probably forthcoming tomorrow.

The council would stage the game Dec. 22 or 25 in 103,000-capacity Memorial coliseum, with most proceeds going to charity.

After telephone calls, Harby said Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, West Point commandant, promised an answer within two days, and that Father John Cavanaugh of Notre Dame said the Irish might favorably consider the game, if Army accepts.

Cardinal First Sacker Stanley Frank Musial Named National Loop's Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK—(UP)—Cardinal First Baseman Stanley Frank Musial, today was named the National league's most valuable player, getting all but two first place votes out of 24 cast for the highest point total since the award was established.

Musial, a great team man who led the St. Louis Cardinals to the pennant, also won the award in 1943 as an outfielder and becomes the second player in major league history to be selected from two different fielding positions. Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers won the American league award as a first baseman in 1935 and as an outfielder in 1940. Only two other National leaguers besides Musial, Carl Hubbell of the Giants, the winner in 1938 and 1936, and Rogers Hornsby, in 1925 and 1929, have been given the award twice.

Musial, a lefthanded hitter who led both leagues in batting with a .365 figure, joins Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder and the American league's most valuable player, as recipient of the Judge Kenesaw M. Landis Memorial plaque, given annually to the players selected.

Musial was in the navy in 1944 and 1945 and had no chance to defend the honor he won in 1943 until this season. He also led both leagues in hits with 228, in triples with 20, and in doubles with 49. He paced the National in runs scored with 121.

Musial received 319 points out of a possible total of 336 in the balloting by 24 members of the Baseball Writers association—three from each city in the league. The only other player to receive first place consideration also was a Cardinal, Outfielder Enos Slaughter, who got the other two 14-point votes. Musial received one nine-point second place vote, and one two-point ninth place vote to account for his 319 total.

Second place in the voting went to Brooklyn Outfielder Dixie Walker, who had 159 points, gaining most of his recognition with nine second place votes and six for third.

Slaughter was third with 144 points, Cardinal Pitcher Howie Pollet was fourth with 116, Boston Braves Pitcher Johnny Sain fifth with 95 and Shortstop Peewee Reese of Brooklyn sixth with 79. Others in the top 10 were Eddie Stanky of Brooklyn, 67; Del Ennis of Philadelphia, 61; Pete Reiser of Brooklyn, 58; and last year's award winner, Phil Cavarretta of Chicago, 49.

Bellville Opens With Shiloh 5

BELLVILLE — Bellville opens its 1946-47 basketball campaign here tonight with Shiloh providing the opposition in a Richland county league contest. A reserve game opens the program at 7:15.

Coach Orv Kibler does not have a starter that will go over six feet, but the Blue Jays have shown quite a lot of speed and ball handling ability. Bellville will use both zone and man-for-man defenses.

The Blue Jays have been working out for two weeks and Kibler has not decided on his starting lineup. The openers will be picked from Dave Worner, Don Walker and Homer Walker, seniors; Dutch Collins, junior, and Bill Lyons, Jim Fry, Jim Gleeson and Bill Smith, sophs.

In other county inaugurals, Ontario plays at Lexington, Lucas at Butler, and Plymouth at Union.

SHELBY LIGHT PLANT HAS COAL FOR FOUR WEEKS

Immediate Cut in Service Not Contemplated.

SHELBY — With approximately 27 days' supply of coal on hand, the municipal light and power plant "has no plans to curtail power until ordered to do so by the Solid Fuels Administration," J. P. Adkins, Shelby utilities manager said yesterday.

Seven cars of coal are in transit, with two due to arrive today, Adkins said. His forecast of supply was based on the present rate of consumption. Earlier it was revealed at the light plant by Paul Jones, chief engineer, that approximately 16 cars of coal were on hand.

A Civilian Production Administration spokesman said yesterday that orders calling for the conservation of coal by both gas and electric companies was expected today.

The orders will direct sellers of manufactured gas to conserve coal in every possible way and will provide a formula for reduction in service as coal supplies dwindle, the CPA spokesman said.

The formula is expected to go into effect when a producer's coal supply is reduced to a three-week supply. At that time, curtailment of industrial users would begin, it was explained.

Literary Clubs, Ladies Guild Meet at Galion During Week

GALION—Three Galion literary clubs held regular meetings this week.

With Miss Twila Struthers as hostess, members of the Research club met for a program which was presented by Miss Clara Garverick and Mrs. M. A. Povenmire.

The Tourist club held its meeting at the home of Mrs. E. B. Beall, with Miss Laura Koppe as co-hostess. The program included a paper given by Mrs. R. G. Sayre and a book review prepared by Clara Manzer was presented by Eleanor Poister.

The program was presented by Miss Katherine Quay when members of the Round Table club met at the home of Mrs. M. A. Caldwell.

—has been doing anything for the kids of Mansfield in the line of wholesome dance recreation amusement! Well, being a teenager myself I know better. Since July 12th with no outside help thousands of dollars have been spent in furnishing the kids of this community with Speros Karas' 14-piece top notch dance band, plus the golden voice of Joan Brandt, plus a floor show all for 75c, and I dare say, I don't think there is anything in teenage amusement to equal this in the United States of America. . . . Why don't some of the adults come up this Saturday night and see for themselves just what fine teenage recreation we have?

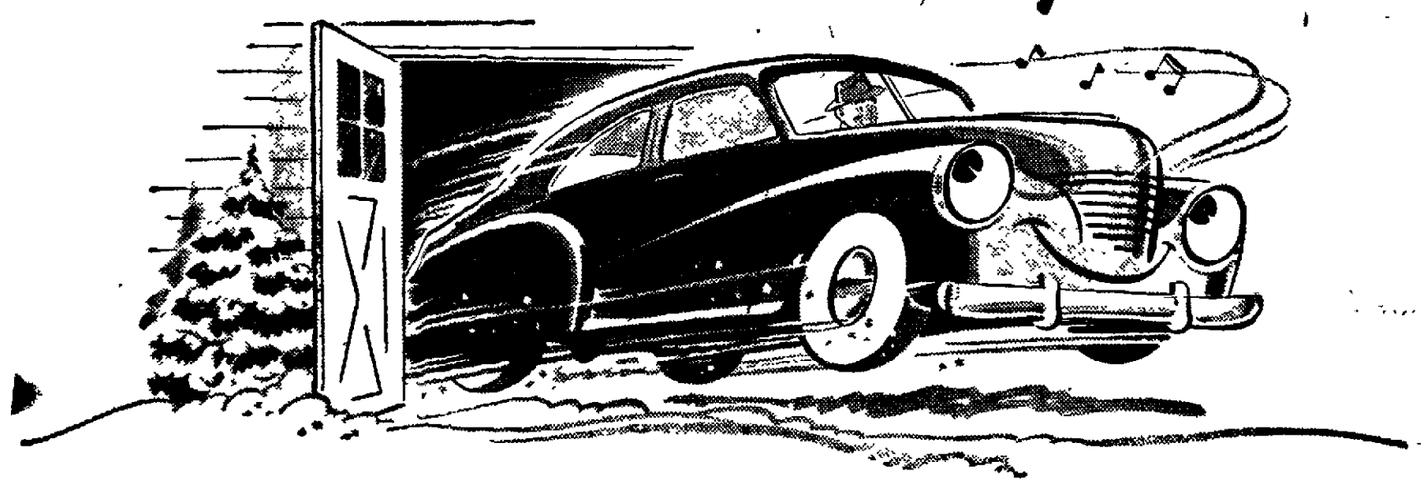
Get a "June morning" start...on the coldest winter day



Change to quick-starting MARATHON Gasoline...and GO!

Slide in behind the wheel . . . even when it feels like an icicle . . . step on the starter . . . and see how fast that cold engine flashes into action. That's Marathon Gasoline's extra STARTING POWER on the job. Right now, every gallon of Marathon Gasoline is Seasonized for Winter, refinery balanced to deliver the right combination of Starting Power, Pick-Up Power and Running Power for top performance at winter temperatures. Makes a difference? Try a tankful, today. Look for the season at the nozzle. It means:

• Faster cold-weather starting • Swifter warm-up and pick-up • Smoother engine performance • Rugged, responsive power • More miles per gallon • Added protection against knocking

Marathon Gasoline Is A Season-Balanced Blend of Light, Medium and Heavy Gasolines

LIGHT gasoline vaporizes fast for quick starts. It's the "paper" that lights the fire.

MEDIUM gasoline accelerates the warm-up. It's the "kindling."

HEAVY gasoline catches last, produces most of the power. It's the "coal."

You need all three gasolines blended in the right refinery balance for best all-'round performance. You're sure of "right balance" with Marathon Seasonized gasoline, correctly rebalanced for every season of the year.
